HOOVER ORDERS U. S. OFFICERS TO GIVE HELP

Hunt Must Not "Be Relaxed Until Criminals Are Brought to Justice"

CONGRESS IS AROUSED

Expected to Pass Law for Federal Penalty in Interstate Kidnapings

Norfolk, Va.—(AP)—An investigation into the Norfolk angle of the Lindbergh kidnaping case was started today at the request of New Jersey authorities, it was announced by Director of Public Safety Charles B. Borah.

Col. Borah, who conferred this morning with Chief of Police S. W. Ironmonger, said Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, New Jersey State police head, had requested the investigation. The Norfolk officials said their investigation would not involve the questioning of the intermediaries for any information they may have obtained, but would be conducted along other lines.

Washington—(AP)—President Hoover today directed the law enforcement agencies and secret service of the federal government to set out upon a hunt for the murderers of the Lindbergh baby, "never to be relaxed until these criminals are implacably brought to justice."

The president, employing strong language, directed the federal police authorities "to make the kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh baby a live and never to be forgotten case."

The federal government does not have direct police authority in the present case, he pointed out, despite its brutality and the nationwide horror it has caused, but federal agencies will be "unceasingly alert" to bring the murderers to punishment. The president issued the following statement:

"I have directed the law enforcement agencies and the several secret services of the federal government to make the kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh baby a live and never to be forgotten case, never to be relaxed until these criminals are implacably brought to justice."

"The federal government does not have police authority in such crimes, but its agencies will be unceasingly alert to assist the New Jersey police in every possible way until this end has been accomplished."

The statement was handed to newspapermen early this morning by one of the president's secretaries.

He read it aloud, slowly and with emphasis, before handing the brief lines over.

The president, who has followed closely since the night of the baby's disappearance the developments in the famous case was at his desk meanwhile.

CONGRESS TO ACT

Washington—(AP)—Deeply shaken at the tragedy of the Lindbergh baby's end, the nation's legislators strove today to throw a barrier of stern federal law in the way of future kidnapings.

Laws to facilitate apprehension of abductors and to multiply the penalties that society may exact for the crime, were drawn when first the child was taken from his home but were kept from enactment lest they frighten the kidnapers into committing the murder which apparently had been their aim.

With this motive gone, and in the same breath with which they joined high and low in expressing grief, the congressmen declared they would see the laws passed.

Words of sorrow came from all quarters of the capital. President and Mrs. Hoover, among the first to be told, communicated immediately with New Jersey officials. Vice President Curtis, senators and representatives spoke in condolence for the parents, and a very evident personal grief.

Senator Norris, who is chairman of the judiciary committee, immediately said a bill pending there to make interstate kidnaping subject to federal law would be passed. Representative Cochran (D., Mo.), predecessor of Senator Norris, said he would make the crime subject to the death penalty. That bill is before the house judiciary group, which held it up on purpose to aid the Lindbergh baby's return. Cochran also has an act pending before the senate group to make the sending of threatening letters and ransom notes through the mails a federal offense. It too was delayed so as not to hamper communications in the Lindbergh case.

Still another measure was approved only yesterday in the house committee. Endorsed by the attorney generals and several governors, it would permit the states to enter pacts for mutual crime prevention and enforcement. This would make possible pursuit of a kidnaper into states without all the baffling delays that now exist.

While all that congress can do is for the future, J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the department of justice investigators, promised utmost government aid in running down the criminals in the present tragedy.

LINDBERGH'S WON'T SEE BODY OF THEIR SLAIN LITTLE SON

Trenton, N. J.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived late today to see the body of his kidnapped baby taken to Linden for cremation.

The little battered body had been placed in a light oak casket and a hearse was waiting at the door of the undertaker's establishment, where the autopsy was performed when Col. Lindbergh drove up in an automobile alone and entered the building. It was not known whether he viewed the body before it was taken out to the hearse.

Trenton, N. J.—(AP)—The broken little body of "the Eagle" will be laid away without his parents having seen it.

Anne and Charles Lindbergh will always remember their lost son as a handsome little chap, with yellow curls and blue eyes and a radiant smile.

Frank W. Swayze, the undertaker in charge of the body, said to neither Col. nor Mrs. Lindbergh would see it.

It will be placed in a sealed coffin before it is delivered to them, he said. He did not know when the burial would take place, or what the funeral arrangements were.

Police today held back a throng of strangers who loitered in the street outside the funeral establishment. In the morgue at the rear the curtains were drawn.

Of those whom he had learned to know and trust in the few months that were his span of life only his nurse, Betty Gow, saw the body of little Charles Lindbergh.

He used to call her "Gow."

Reichers Off On Flight To Span Ocean

Hops from Harbor Grace to Dublin, Enroute to French Capital

Harbor Grace, N. F.—(AP)—Lou Reichers, American aviator speeding eastward from Newark, N. J., for Paris on a two stop flight in which he hoped to better the time of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, reached Harbor Grace this morning and took off again for Dublin, Ireland. Reichers headed his plane out over the Atlantic, the most dangerous leg of his flight, at 4:51 A. M., central standard time. Observers at Harbor Grace said the weather was favorable.

The Arlington, N. J., speed flyer who started from Newark at 9:02 last night, central standard time, landed at Harbor Grace at 3:25 A. M. C. S. T. less than six and one-half hours later. He was somewhat behind the schedule he had set for himself, for he had hoped to cover the distance in five hours. He suffered further delay when, in landing, the stabilizer of his plane was broken.

He effected repairs quickly, however, then filled the fuel tanks of the plane until they held 550 gallons of gasoline, and headed out toward the open sea. It was broad daylight. By evening, Reichers hoped to have cleared the nearly 2,000 mile stretch of rumbling water to land safely in Ireland. There, he planned to replenish his fuel supply and speed onward for Paris.

RESUME OPEN STOCK PROBE NEXT WEEK

Norbeck Reports "Plenty of Evidence of Rotten Practices"

Washington—(AP)—Announcing that the senate investigation of the New York Stock market has uncovered "plenty of evidence of rotten practices" Chairman Norbeck said today the banking committee would resume its open inquiry next Thursday.

Norbeck's announcement was made after a meeting of the steering committee in charge of the investigation at which William A. Gray, committee counsel, reported the progress of his secret study of New York Stock exchange and brokerage records.

Gray and his staff, Norbeck said, are working on ten or twelve cases of irregularities and stock manipulation.

"He is uncovering plenty of evidence of rotten practices for robbing the public," Norbeck said. "He will have some cases ready for hearing next Thursday."

Norbeck refused to reveal the names of the prospective witnesses or to give any indication of the particular phase of the inquiry which will be brought to light at that time.

Gray will return to New York to continue his secret investigation but will come back here for the hearing Thursday.

WOMEN TIMING WORK TO ATTEND COOKING SCHOOL

Annual Four-day Course Opens Next Monday Afternoon at Chapel

Women in Appleton and vicinity will be dusting off the old alarm clock to set their housework up a notch, planning next week's meals this weekend and scrubbing the last window for spring housecleaning this week in order to attend the eleventh annual Appleton Post-Crescent Cooking School which brings Fannie Hamilton, cooking and homemaking authority, to Appleton at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The annual cooking school will be held for four days, beginning Monday in Lawrence Memorial chapel, with the cooking and homemaking lectures starting promptly at 2 o'clock. The doors of the chapel, which will seat 1,600 women, will open at 1 o'clock every afternoon. At 1:30 an organ concert will be given by Francis Proctor, graduate of Lawrence Conservatory of Music.

Mrs. E. W. Cooney, president of Appleton Women's club, will introduce Miss Hamilton to women at the cooking school at the Monday session. Throughout the week various club presidents will welcome the speaker.

New Ideas Possible

When vivacious Miss Hamilton stands in her immaculate kitchen domain set up on the chapel stage, the most experienced, time tried housewife will receive inspiration, and the woman interested in nutrition and proper diet will gather a wealth of new ideas. Miss Hamilton is exceptionally well versed in cooking having learned its practical side at home, and further studied it at Stout Institute at Menominee, and the University of Wisconsin. Her string of successful cooking schools, which she has conducted for several years throughout the entire country, and Honolulu stand as the best recommendation possible. At the present time she is the head of a well organized homemaking department of one of the largest firms in this country.

Although Miss Hamilton will cook, prepare and serve meals, attractive economical dishes and unusual recipes in her kitchen, she will go further than cooking in her lectures. She will give hints on laundering, tell how to plan and arrange kitchen equipment as well as give a demonstration of how to set a table properly for various meals.

This last will be done in the model dining room which sets at one side of the kitchen, entirely appointed through the cooperation of various Appleton merchants. The model kitchen itself will be an efficient room with three large tables for Miss Hamilton's use across the front of the stage, ranges, cabinet and laundry equipment at the back, and a row of kitchen windows, realistically curtained to the complete sunny kitchen atmosphere.

Any woman interested in the planning or preparation of meals, child nutrition, table service and decoration, menus for bridge parties, and family dinners or suppers will find Miss Hamilton a valuable assistance to her problems.

Comfort For All

Lawrence chapel, obtained this year to accommodate the crowds of women who annually look forward to the cooking school as an important event, is a comfortable auditorium, well ventilated and spacious. The chapel provides a large main floor and balcony gallery with comfortable seats placed so that every woman may see the chapel stage with perfect ease. This fact, together with the exceptional acoustics in the building, will make the cooking school a greater success than ever before from the standpoint of the audience. Able to watch every move of Miss Hamilton's as she prepares the meals and able to hear each word she gives in explanation, every woman in the audience will share in the four days' program.

Where Lindbergh's Baby Was Found Slain

In this depression on the wooded slope of Mount Rose in the Sourland mountains, four miles from the Lindbergh estate at Hopewell, N. J., the body of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr. was found and the hopes of the nation for his safe return were shattered. The child's skull was fractured, and the condition of the remains indicated that he had been killed several months ago, shortly after he was stolen. Copyright 1932 NEA Service, Inc., Telephoto.

AID PLAN SENT TO COMMITTEE

Democrats Fail to Give Unqualified Approval to Hoover Proposal

Washington—(AP)—Senate Democrats today turned the Hoover compromise $1,500,000 relief plan over to a special committee for study.

A second conference of the Democrats failed to develop an absolute approval of the compromise. The special committee was determined upon to go over the plan. Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, whose conference with President Hoover opened the way for a compromise, will serve as a member.

Other members are Wagner of New York, Walsh of Montana, Pittman of Nevada, and Bulkeley of Ohio.

As a result of last night's conference at the White House between the president and Republicans of the senate banking committee, the public leaders were confident of a general agreement in their ranks on the proposal to extend federal aid to the states for unemployment relief and to finance public and private construction—by means of the reconstruction corporation.

Meanwhile, house banking leaders were waiting to see President Hoover's plan in legislative form before taking any position on the huge financing program.

Chairman Steagall of the banking committee said he was waiting to "see the plan in black and white, telling in detail what is proposed, before passing judgment on it."

MASSIE PARTY IS DUE TODAY IN CALIFORNIA

San Francisco—(AP)—Two of the defendants in the recent Honolulu lynching trial and others connected with the case were scheduled to arrive in San Francisco today from Hawaii on the liner Maialoa.

In response to an "urgent request" it was announced a navy launch would meet the liner and take off Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, Mrs. Massie, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, mother of Mrs. Massie, and other members of the party, which includes Clarence Darroff, who directed the defense at the trial.

Lieutenant Massie and Mrs. Fortescue, with two navy enlisted men, E. J. Lord and A. O. Jones, were convicted of manslaughter for the slaying of Joseph Kahahawai, a Hawaiian accused of criminal assault on Mrs. Massie. Their sentences were commuted to one hour.

MEANS FORFEITS $65 IN DRUNKENNESS CASE

Washington—(AP)—Gaston B. Means was allowed to forfeit $55 collateral instead of appearing for trial on charges of assault, drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

Michael P. Keogh, assistant United States district attorney, announced in police court this morning that Means would be permitted to forfeit the collateral and the case would not be pursued.

A little later in the day Means was to be arraigned in District of Columbia Supreme court on charges of embezzlement in an alleged Lindbergh ransom fraud. The indictment in this case charge him with taking $104,999 from Mrs. Edward B. Mean, estranged wife of the publisher of the Washington Post, under the pretense that he could recover the Lindbergh baby.

BRITISH "WHO'S WHO" LISTS LINDY'S CHILD

New York—(AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was considered such an important personage that his name was listed in the British "Who's Who."

The 1931 edition of the book added to its roster his name and that of Marie Rose, daughter of the duke and duchess of York, born two months after Charles, Jr.

CHINESE AND JAPANESE CLASH IN MANCHURIA

Mukden, Manchuria—(AP)—The Rengo (Japanese) News agency reported today that Japanese troops had clashed in the vicinity of Shangkuan with a body of Chang Hsiang-Liang's volunteers, driving them from the field after prolonged fighting. The Chinese were reported to have lost 120 killed.

POLICE LAUNCH UNITED SEARCH IN NEW JERSEY

Body of Victim in Trenton Pending Completion of Funeral Plans

ARREST PROBABLE, HINT

Prosecutor Says Arrest May Be Expected Within Several Days

Hopewell, N. J.—(AP)—The search for the kidnapped Lindbergh baby was at an end today—for the baby was dead.

But the search for the slayers was intensified a thousand fold, and by order of President Hoover himself will never be relaxed until the criminals are implacably brought to justice.

The little body was found by mere chance near the Lindbergh home yesterday afternoon, and though little more than a skeleton, was definitely identified as that of the missing child.

There was a wound above the high forehead and the skull had been broken by the murderers who stole the ailing child from his crib on the night of March 1.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife, soon to become a mother for a second time, were secluded in their home today, their unflinching hope brought to an end at last by the sad certainty of death.

Pending completion of funeral plans the body of the baby remained at the undertaker's premises in Trenton where the autopsy was performed, which made identification doubly sure.

Plan Concerted Action

As President Hoover in Washington was ordering the federal law enforcement agencies to begin relentless and unending pursuit of the slayers, state and county officials gathered in Trenton to plan concerted action to bring the criminals to justice.

Among those at the conference were the attorney general of New Jersey, prosecuting officials of two counties in which the Lindbergh estate lies, and Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police, who has had general charge of the investigation ever since the baby was kidnapped.

District Attorney Erwin Marshall, who will have jurisdiction because the body was found in Mercer county although the kidnaping occurred in Hudson county, indicated that an arrest might be expected though it might not be for several days.

He said that no one was under suspicion at the present time and that Dr. John P. Condon, who paid the useless $50,000 ransom, and John Hughes Curtis, one of the Norfolk negotiators for return of the baby, were not under arrest.

Curtis and Dr. Condon made statements last night and were examined verbally at length today.

Marshall would not say what theory was favored by police as to motive for the brutal crime, but it was known authorities had under consideration one fact that would indicate that Dr. Condon and Curtis had been in actual contact with the kidnapers.

Sleeping Suit Missing

The baby's sleeping suit was missing when the body was found.

A description sent out immediately after the kidnaping said the child was wearing a white flannel sleeping suit—a garment that would cover him from neck to feet. Under it wore a little flannel shirt his nurse had made and put on him late that afternoon to protect his chest and keep him from catching more cold.

On the body yesterday there was no sleeping suit, only the soiled and tattered remnants of the little shirt and a flannel band around the waist.

It has been reported several times that both Dr. Condon and the Norfolk intermediaries turned over to the Lindberghs an article of clothing or a piece of cloth that convinced them contact had been established with the actual kidnapers.

And so the theory had to be considered that the kidnapers, believed by many officials to have been disgraced killed their tiny victim almost immediately, stripped off the sleeping suit, and after the body had been cast aside in the hidden hollow where it was found, set about obtaining ransom for a child they knew could never be returned to its parents alive.

Two "intermediaries" of the baby search, men who for weeks had been moving in and out of the background, their movements carefully guarded for fear of endangering the child's life, were called to give an account of their hidden activities. One of these men was Dr. John F. Hopewell.

Intermediaries Still Silent About Efforts For Lindbergh

TRIO QUIZZED BY OFFICIALS IN NEW JERSEY

Negotiators Find It Difficult to Believe Child's Body Found

Trenton, N. J., (P)—District Attorney Erwin Marshall announced this afternoon that nothing had been found to implicate Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafse" of the search for the Lindbergh baby. "He has been released and has gone back to New York," Marshall said.

District Attorney Marshall said after a conference at the state house today that no one was under suspicion for the slaying of the Lindbergh baby "at this time," but that there might be an arrest any time.

But there may not be any arrests for a few days," he added. "We are not going off half-cocked on this thing. We are going to study this case and know where we are going."

Marshall, who is prosecutor of Mercer-co and so has jurisdiction over because the body was found in that county although the kidnapping occurred in Hunterdon-co, said he was unprepared to advance any theories yet.

He said Dr. Condon, who paid the fee of $50,000 ransom, and John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk negotiator for the baby's return, had come voluntarily to the Lindbergh home after the body was found.

They made formal statements last night and were subjected to lengthy questioning today.

HOLD TRIO OF KIMBERLY MEN PENDING PROBE

Recover Articles Stolen from Automobiles Parked at Dance Halls

Three Kimberly men are being held at the county jail today pending an investigation into their activities during the last few weeks. Officials suspect the three of having committed a series of thefts from automobiles throughout the county. The three men are: Lloyd Duchane, 28; Frank Poppe, 18; and Howard Huntington 22. Huntington was taken into custody with the other two because officials said they learned he had been with them when they are suspected of having stolen several tires from automobiles at a dance at Greenville.

The three were taken into custody last night by Frank Van Lieshout, Kimberly police chief, John Lappen, sheriff, and Peter Van Oudenhoven, county motorcycle officer, following an investigation by Chief Van Lieshout and Sheriff Lappen. At Poppe's home the officers found several articles which they believe were stolen and in Duchane's car they found other articles, also believed to have been stolen. The officers recovered two automobile tires, six auto robes and a portable typewriter which are being held at the jail as evidence.

Sheriff Lappen said this morning that thefts have been reported to him during the last few weeks from cars which were parked at several dance halls in the county. Further investigation in the case was being made at Kimberly this morning and placing of charges against the trio perds the outcome of this probe.

THE PROBLEM OF RELIEF

After receiving reports from social workers in thirty-seven cities the Survey concludes that "with meager and uncertain funds these cities have somehow muddled through the winter keeping their people alive" but they are "still planless and with no sign of improved employment with relief needs growing and with relief funds dwindling to exhaustion, they turn their blind eyes to the future, where already the spectre of another winter is rising."

The editors of the Survey are right in centering attention upon next winter. On the most optimistic premise of business improvement huge expenditures will be required next winter to relieve the unemployed. For even if we dared to assume that the volume of unemployment will be less than this winter the intensity of the need of the large number who will inevitably remain unemployed will be much greater. The resources of private charity must be expected to diminish and the yield of taxes cannot be expected to have improved much.

Where then are we to look for the funds which must be found? No short and easy answer can be given to that question.

The money has to come out of the existing resources of the American people. There are only three ways in which it can come. One way is by increasing taxes. A second way is by spending for relief public funds now spent upon other purposes. The third is by borrowing the money. These three methods are not mutually exclusive. It will be found necessary, I believe, to resort to all three. The manner in which these three measures are employed is the essence of the problem. They must be employed in such a way as to bring the maximum relief without adding more of a new burden than is inescapable. Thus the apparently easiest way to proceed would be to raise a Federal bond issue and distribute the proceeds for relief. This would seem to cost nobody anything at the moment. But to resort to a bond issue as the first step would be the most wasteful and least effective way to begin. For that kind of easy policy would at once divert attention from the essential problem. That is the problem of federal and local extravagance.

The real reason why, by and large—there are no doubt important exceptions—the localities are at the end of their resources is that the politicians have not yet taken the sent them to Washington pleading for help.

This is the time to break into this problem, and one of the most hopeful things in America today are the signs that the American people are waking up to the urgency of it. The need of the unemployed for this summer and next winter can largely be met by the localities if they have to. The problem has not really been faced by the localities and it would be a great mistake to relieve them of the necessity of facing it by passing the burden to congress. The federal government is not so happily situated that it can easily find the money, and those who want a plan prepared for next winter should begin by educating the voters in the cities and states that the primary responsibility must be their and that they can meet it if they have the will.

I am persuaded, however, that after as much has been done as the office holders will permit, there will remain some communities which really cannot meet the demands upon them. I am not thinking of New York City or Chicago or Philadelphia. If rich cities like these, situated in rich states, cannot help themselves, something is more thoroughly wrong with them than any one has yet imagined. I am thinking of communities in states where the deflation of prices has really exhausted the supplies of liquid funds. They will have to have federal aid, and the only question is how it should be provided.

The worst way to provide it is by direct appropriations. For this method once adopted will by all previous American experience create a new pork barrel which vested political interests will control and exploit. It seems to me, therefore, that the federal aid to these exhausted communities ought to take the form of federal loans at a nominal rate of interest. It might be well to consider the creation of some kind of emergency commission which upon proof of need would have power to grant loans to states. Some such procedure as this would make the necessary money available without all of the obvious dangers and disadvantages of direct grants out of the federal treasury.

makes never a sound!

ELECTROLUX freezes without machinery—that's the big new idea in automatic refrigeration today. And because it has no moving parts—nothing that could possibly cause vibration or wear—Electrolux is absolutely silent. There's no alternate stopping and starting, either. A tiny gas flame and a tiny flow of water circulate the refrigerant that produces constant cold... freezes plenty of pure, sparkling ice cubes.

And it's just this simplicity of operation that also accounts for its low operating cost. Gas and water—and very little of each—are all that's required. A few cents a day covers the cost of both.

Installation is quickly and easily made. And should your Electrolux ever require adjustment, you may expect the same prompt and efficient service you are accustomed to receive from your gas company.

Plan to see Electrolux today. Prices are no higher. Terms are liberal. A complete line of beautiful models is on display in our showrooms now.

Appleton Yacht Club to Secure Dates from National Association

Paul Stevens was named general chairman of committees in charge of arrangements for the second annual regatta of the Appleton Yacht club at a meeting of the organization in the clubhouse Thursday evening. Mr. Stevens also headed the regatta committees last year.

During the next few days club officials expect to communicate with the National Outboard association to secure definite and official dates for the boat races. It is expected, however, the regatta will be held the latter part of July. An effort also will be made to secure representatives of the national association to act as officials at the races.

A report of the membership committee revealed that since the club was incorporated and reorganized about a month ago, 40 new members had joined. An effort is being made to secure 100 members.

Thomas McCann, president; Edward Geenen, vice president; and John Hooyman, secretary-treasurer.
The principal speaker was Walter E.
Singer, county organizer of Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool.

Mr. Singer told farmers at the Thursday night meeting that the membership of pool in Outagamie-co now is 700 and that he expects it to be more than double before June 1.
He said that when farmers understand the hardships caused by the low prices of farm products and what their neighbors are trying to do in the way of organizing to bring about higher prices and general relief, they will be anxious to sign up and to help the organization work along.

At the close of his discussion of the discouraging milk price situation and what farmers can do in the way

Careful Preparation
Needed For Seed Bed

Careful preparation of the top soil after the garden has been well spaded is the next important operation in gardening. The soil must be made fine to receive the seeds, the fine quality being necessary to establish close contact with the seed and give a medium for the tiny root to penetrate and in which to take hold.

The largest lumps should be broken up with the spade or spading fork during the process of digging. A garden rake is the time-honored instrument for reducing the soil to a fine and smooth surface and the most effective one. The garden should be raked level and the soil made as fine as possible before the rows for the seeds are made.

Before starting in to sow the seed, the distances should be staked or marked off in the garden, the rows located at proper distances apart so that getting the seeds into the ground may proceed expeditiously once it is started. If the soil has been brought to fine tilth, marking off the rows with a triangular bladed hoe or even with a wooden plant label or any convenient instrument is a simple matter with the aid of cord and a plank.

The breaking up of the soil should not be undertaken if the soil is wet.
If, when turned over, it seems too wet to work easily, it is best to leave it a day or two to dry out when it will break up much more easily. In heavy clay soils the task of reducing the surface to a fine tilth is often difficult. In such cases it is best to plant seed in boxes or in a seed bed with better soil for the purpose and transplant into the clayey medium. Torpedo sand is often used to mix with clay to break up the sticky texture. It is a matter of constant working of several seasons, adding humus, an occasional dressing of lime and sand or crushed limestone to bring clay soil into a condition for seed sowing.

Another device sometimes employed to assist the germination of seeds in soil of very heavy texture is to make rows a little deeper than the seeds require and fill in with silver sand upon which the seed is sown and then covered lightly. But, in any case, work the surface soil and reduce it as close to powder fineness as may be before seed sowing. Germination in coarse lumpy soil will result in the loss of many plants because the tiny rootlet will often find no lodgement.

BACK TARIFF ON
COPPER, MICHIGAN
URGES WISCONSIN

Upper Part of Neighboring State Threatens Boycott
on Badger Goods

Milwaukee—(AP)—Upper Michigan wants Wisconsin senators and congressmen to vote for a tariff on copper. So insistent is the copper country that Wisconsin representatives vote the Michigan way that a trade boycott against Wisconsin industries is seriously threatened. It is stated by business men here.

Upper Michigan is particularly aroused by Senator Robert LaFollette's disposition toward the copper tariff. Wisconsin salesmen, it is reported here, are being told with considerable frankness not to expect copper country business unless the senator swings around to a favorable attitude on the proposed tariff of four cents a pound.

Copper is the industrial life of the region, and it is reported that mines are operating at about 20 per cent of their capacity. Senator LaFollette has cast one unfavorable ballot on the tariff proposal which Upper Michigan believes is its salvation and Wisconsin salesmen and other trade emissaries are hearing about it.
"The antagonism seems to be general," it was said by John V. Halaska, secretary and treasurer of the Acme Chemical company. "From Calumet came our first indication of the feeling. A school superintendent, with whom we had done business satisfactorily for years, told the school board not to buy anything from Wisconsin unless LaFollette supports the copper tariff. Since then we have heard about it from a dozen other Michigan centers.
"I don't blame Michigan for its attitude, but I think it is unsound. It is my belief that if the tariff is not

CROP SPECIALIST TO TALK AT GATHERING

George M. Briggs, crop specialist with the state department of agriculture, will be the speaker at a get-together meeting sponsored by the Ellington Dairy Herd Improvement association next Tuesday evening at Hortonville. Members and their friends are being invited to the program and the dance which will follow. Mr. Briggs will discuss Emergency Hays.

Mr. Briggs also will remain in Outagamie-co Wednesday when he will make personal farm visits in the morning and speak at two meetings, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. The place of the two meetings will be decided by Gus Sell, county agent. Mr. Sell said the meetings would be scheduled at the places from which the most demand was received.

STUDENTS LOOKING

passed the mines will close and the industrial life of the district will be dead for a time at least. But suppose this discrimination between states should spread. Suppose Wisconsin retaliated and said "we'll buy no Michigan automobiles," and the boycott grew until states began to preach domestic consumption only.
Where would sound business end?
In a hole, and a deep one."

Among business men generally there seemed to be a great deal of sympathy for Michigan's plea. Harry H. Hall of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce said that the organization has telegraphed both of Wisconsin's senators to support the copper tariff and that the association is making other efforts to line up Wisconsin votes for the tariff
Michigan wants.

Glenn Frank Answers Recent Attacks On Badger University

RAPS ATTEMPTS OF CLIQUES TO GAIN CONTROL

Pledges Self to Battle Efforts to Impair Freedom of Institution

Madison.—(AP)—“As long as I am president of the University of Wisconsin no limited group in this state will turn the university into its tool without knowing that it has been through a fight.”

In those words, Pres. Glenn Frank made a special convention of students, Wednesday, accepted the challenge which has been thrown down in recent attacks on the institution.

“The university is not worth the investment of one dollar of taxpayer's money unless it maintains its freedom from the external control of cliques,” he said. “And as long as I am its president I shall fight for this freedom to deal objectively with the life of the mind and the life of the state regardless of personal cost to myself or political support for the university itself.”

The president said he did not call the convention in a desire to dignify by direct reply “the insincere, unprincipled, and dishonest campaign for deliberate slander to which the university has been lately subjected by a little handful of ambitious men who seem quite willing to stab the state's greatest institution in the back if they think they might thereby advance their personal or political fortunes.”

His “Character Assassins” Rather, he said, its purpose was to clear the air for those “in whose minds sincere questionings may have been raised by this carnival of claptrap.” He said the “little band of character assassins” who have been promoting the attack on the university have dramatized isolated and unrepresentative persons and incidents to distort the picture of the entire university.

“The picture with which they insult the intelligence of this enlightened commonwealth,” he said, “is that of an institution in which the principle of freedom of thought—without which a university becomes but a merchandise mart for the insights of antiquity and a prison house for the minds of the present—has resulted in a riotous orgy of political, social, economic, religious, and moral chaos.”

Dr. Frank cited illustrations of the “intellectual dishonesty, unless we are to assume ignorance, that underlies this blatant bathos of the university's organized detractors.” One was the attempt to picture him as a propagandist for communism. They attempt he said, was made by lifting from their context and distorting their meaning, phrases from his baccalaureate sermon last June and from an address on the crisis of capitalism.

Wants Statements Read The president challenged the censors of the university to read the addresses in full and to follow the reading with interpretations they have placed upon them. Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, and the Tribune itself, recommended the address on capitalism and “I have not heard of Col. McCormick's being suspected of red.”

Another illustration concerned the flying of a red banner from Bascom hall on May day. It was taken down by watchmen but the incident was given much publicity, he said. It is incredible, the president said, that intelligent men would give it more than an amused notice whether it represented pranks or zeal of a radical youth.

As the third illustration President Frank cited the denunciations of the university because some of its faculty members support the American Civil Liberties union. The union, he declared, has no purpose except to protect the right of free speech, free press and free assembly, and that it is naturally called upon often to defend the right for men with minority opinions than for men with majority opinions.

“Men who never differ from the majority never find themselves denied the constitutional right of free speech, free press, and free assembly,” he said. “But men whose Americanism is real and not mere campaign rhetoric, do not flinch from the duty of defending the rights even of men whose opinions they despise.”

Answering other charges, the president said the university does not teach atheism but that in one course the non-theistic conception is stated along with others. Dr. Frank, who once served in the pulpits of many villages, said the university is deeply imbued with the religious life of its students.

“If any teacher of the University of Wisconsin should undertake actively to propagandize for atheism in his class room I should as quickly ask for his resignation from the faculty as I should ask the resignation of a teacher who converted his class room into a recruiting station for Calvinism or Christian Science,” he said.

APPLETON PLAINTIFFS LOSE SUIT FOR DAMAGES A jury in municipal court at Oshkosh yesterday afternoon found in favor of Calumet-co in a suit brought against the county by David Smith, Appleton, and the Badger Spring company, Appleton. Smith and his firm originally sought damages of $600 but this later was stipulated settling damages to $300. The suit was brought as the result of an accident on Highway 57 near Chilton on July 3, 1931, when a car owned by the printing company and driven by Smith, skidded on a freshly oiled road and overturned. The jury held that the county was not negligent and that Smith was guilty of contributory negligence. Under the verdict Smith cannot recover.

Miss Gertrude McGuire, Wausau, president of the Wisconsin Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, spoke of the part of business and professional women in the present reconstruction period, in her message to 150 members of the federation at the opening session of their twelfth annual convention this morning. Miss McGuire has been re-nominated for president of the state group.

SCHOOL PROGRAMS ARE WELL ATTENDED

St. Mary Children Present Fantasy and Two Dramatic Plays

More than 500 people attended the two productions of St. Mary school children at Columbia hall Wednesday and Thursday nights. Upper grade children Wednesday presented the fantasy of “Boyland and Maidland,” and last night they gave two dramatic plays.

Fifth and sixth grade students presented the Wednesday night performance, which included six colorful scenes. More than 250 students took part in the double program.

Students from the seventh and eighth grades also played the Thursday night performance which featured the plays “Tad's Inspiration” and “That Baseball Game.” The Thursday program opened with a balloon dance given by eighth grade girls in Grecian costumes.

Daniel O'Neill as the mustached Prof. John Gentry, and Vincent Jones, lead of the play who took the part of Tad, were outstanding actors in the play, “Tad's Inspiration.” Thomas Planner and Daniel O'Neill presented special musical solo numbers.

In the active baseball game story, in which rosters and players carried the theme of action, the entire cast portrayed their parts well. Robert Fountain took the elderly part of Mr. Hamilton, with John Campbell as the boy Jack.

Testimony was completed in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg this morning in a suit for $3,545 brought by Mrs. Frances T. Davis, Appleton, against William Wendlandt, also of Appleton. Arguments of attorneys are to take place this afternoon after which the case is expected to go to the jury.

The case opened yesterday. Mrs. Davis seeks damages for an alleged permanent injury to her hand she claims was caught in the wringer of an electric washing machine while she was employed as Wendlandt's housekeeper. She claims the machine was defective as a result of Wendlandt's negligence and that she was forced to operate the machine in a place where there was not sufficient light. Wendlandt filed a counterclaim for $88, claiming that amount is due him for board for Mrs. Davis' daughter, who stayed at the Wendlandt home for 11 weeks.

CHARGE MAN DIDN'T STOP AFTER CRASH Jack Zuelzke, 406 N. Appleton-st. was arraigned in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning on a charge of failing to stop, giving his name and offering assistance after an accident. Hearing of the case was set for Monday and Zuelzke furnished a bond of $50. He was arrested last night on complaint of Jack Reid, 125 N. Division-st., who charged Zuelzke failed to stop after his car collided at the corner of Oneida and Harris-sts. about 7 o'clock last night. Both cars were slightly damaged but no one was injured.

LEADERSHIP IS ECONOMIC NEED, B. P. W. ADVISED

Stress Improvement of Society, President Tells Business Women

Suggesting that business and professional women devote their energies to the humanitarian and social side of the present reconstruction period, Miss Gertrude McGuire, Wausau, spoke of women's part in the improvement of present conditions in her annual message to the Wisconsin Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs at its twelfth annual convention at Conway hotel this morning. Miss McGuire is president of the state federation.

Miss McGuire spoke of the depression, deplored the present state of politics, and held up leadership in the improvement of economic conditions as the goal for business and professional women.

Enlarging upon the thought presented by Miss Marion McClintch, national president, in her convention address, the speaker told of the need for stressing the improvement of society, rather than going further in material progress.

“If women are to indulge in politics let it be for the purpose of purifying it; if they are to compete with men in the professions let it be for the purpose of raising the standards of those professions; if they are to rival men in business let it be to show how it can be done on a strictly honest basis,” she declared.

“By confining ourselves to the humanitarian and social side of this great reconstruction period through which we are passing we shall not lack for work to do.”

This employment question is one which vitally concerns both business women and men. If the five-day week becomes the accepted standard, then there comes a great challenge to the federation to increase its recreational program and especially develop its educational program so the extra hours which will be ours will be spent in improvement.

“We must aim toward real leadership in thinking on economic problems and their social implications with a view toward helping in the establishment, through scientific methods, of conditions which assure to women, and men as well, the fullest possible opportunity for the development of whatever capabilities they possess.”

In a severe censorship of present day politics, Miss McGuire said “Once politics was called a game and it is styled a graft. Soon it may become, quite universally, a racket. In some localities it has reached that high eminence. As long as it remains a graft or a racket men and women of character will have nothing to do with it. But on the other hand it will always remain a graft or a racket unless those men and women reform it.”

“The prospect is not encouraging. Because of incompetent and dishonest governments some of the richest cities in the United States face bankruptcy. Chicago is not alone in its disgrace. New York is forced to stand hat in hand before the bankers and be happy when these gentlemen exact the highest interest the city has ever paid for a loan.”

“If the tale of cities is a sorry one, the story of state and federal governments is not very much better. In some respects it is worse. Hard Grant's State governments as a rule are fairly honest. The old theory that public office is a public trust is today only a theme for cynical quotation when public office is commonly a private emolument, and often a private key to the treasury. Men of low mental and moral character operate the political machine. Honest citizens go to the polls to be given the choice of choosing the least unfit man. After a time many do not go to the polls.

That women could enter a non-competitive field if they attempted the civilization of society was suggested by the state president.

“American women enjoy an unheard-of independence chiefly because of their preparedness in economic control,” she declared as she told of the wealth controlled by women. “What are they actually doing with their independence? They content themselves with doing large jobs for men. They compete with men in the lighter arts, such as aviation, motor-racing, stock breeding, assassination, real estate, bootlegging, racketeering—all of which men do very well. I venture to suggest a field of activity which they seem to have left unnoticed and in which they would meet with no competition from men, and that is civilizing the society in which they live.”

Plays Lead

The leading feminine role in the play, “R-U-R,” to be presented tonight at Lawrence Memorial chapel by the Lawrence college theatre, is taken by Miss Betty Meyer of Appleton.

STUDENTS OFFER “R-U-R” TONIGHT

Leading Feminine Role Taken by Miss Betty Meyer of Appleton

Miss Betty Meyer, Appleton, will play the leading feminine role in the play, “R-U-R,” to be presented this evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel by members of the Lawrence college theatre. She will play opposite Roy McNeil as the general manager of Rossus's Universal Robots, Inc.

The supporting cast includes a number of veterans of college productions as well as many new members from the freshman and sophomore classes. The managerial staff of the robot corporation will include Roland Beyer, Kaukauna, in the role of Dr. Gall; Milton Keller as Mr. Farby; Charles Turver as Dr. Hallemier; Eric Voket as Mr. Alquist; and John Schneider as Consul Bushman. Leading robot roles will be played by Dorothy Gates, Merin Pitt, Eleanor Watson, Hubert Rasch, Florence Bennett, and Sam Barton. Several robot mob scenes are included in the latter part of the play.

The play, written by Karl Capek, consists of three acts and an epilogue. Besides the excitement and suspense usually found only in the melodrama, it is socially satirical in relating the outcome of a world inhabited by millions of robots who these robots revolt against human dominance. The play has been hailed by New York and Chicago critics as being outstanding both as to its unusualness and thought.

OFFICERS OF STATE B. P. W. ARE NOMINATED

Miss Gertrude McGuire, Wausau, President, Expected to Be Re-elected

Miss Gertrude McGuire, Wausau, president of the Wisconsin Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, was nominated for another term in the report of the nominating committee presented at the opening session of the twelfth annual convention at the Conway hotel Friday morning. One hundred and fifty women were registered by noon.

Other officers nominated were Miss Lydia Hollenbeck, Appleton, and Miss Grace McLay, Beloit, first vice president; Estelle Glass, Racine and Grace Meyer, Madison, second vice president; Lillian Gasbeck, Kenosha, and Lucille Long, Sheboygan, secretary; Lorraine de Smith, Sheboygan, treasurer; and Gertrude Forrester, West Bend, Anna Leisk, Milwaukee, Dora Marshall, La Crosse, and Clara Olson, Menominee, directors.

An invitation to hold the 1933 convention in Anigo was presented by a representative from the Anigo club.

An invocation by the Rev. Elizabeth Wilson opened the convention at 10 o'clock this morning. Mayor John Goodland, Jr. gave the address of welcome, and Miss Esther Miller, past president of the local club, greeted the delegates on the part of the hostess club. Mr. Goodland spoke of all the famous people that had been reared in Appleton—Edna Ferber, Harry Houdini, and Dr. John E. Murphy; and Miss Miller stressed the culture of Appleton, speaking of the beautiful traditions of Appleton, and of the impress that many great people had left upon the city.

In her response on behalf of the delegates, Miss Paula Clusen Manitowoc, spoke of the necessity for women in business to be big about little things. She said that nothing in the progress of civilization was as great as the victory of an individual over himself when he has learned to rid himself of pettiness.

The secretary, Miss Luella M. Hill, Menominee, Wis., reported that there are 21 clubs with a total membership of 1,138 affiliated with the state federation. The treasurer's report was read by Miss Margaret Healy, Wausau, the nominating committee report by Miss Marie Franzen, and the report of the credentials committee by Miss Catherine Nooyen, Appleton.

Miss Hollenbeck of this city is general chairman of the convention.

YOUTHFUL “HOBBO” PICKS UP CHANGE SELLING EXTRAS

Black haired and grinning Malley Juri, 18-year-old “hobbo” from San Francisco, declares he got a break last night when the Appleton Post-Crescent issued extra editions on the death of the Lindbergh baby.

Bumming his way from the west since New Year's day, young Juri came over to the newspaper office as soon as he found newsboys on the streets with extra papers, looking for a chance to pick up a few “square meals.” With the money from 100 paper sales in his pocket, he left Appleton with a smile, hitting out, he said, toward Manitowoc where he is going to try to get a job on the lake boats for the summer.

“This business is supposed to be an easy way when you haven't got a job,” he grinned, “but it's not so hot when you haven't had a meal for three or four days. But I'll get a job sometime, even if it is turning ‘newsie’ here and there.”

JUNE 1 BUSY DAY FOR SENIOR CLASS

Honors and Awards to Be Issued to Outstanding Students

Wednesday, June 1, marks the busiest day in the high school year for seniors at Appleton high school, since this is not only the last official day of their high school career, but school honors and awards and Claron will be issued on this day, which culminates into the annual senior banquet at night.

One of the highest awards, counted among the oldest traditions of the high school, is the awarding of the Craftsmanship shield to the senior boy or girl who is voted by the faculty to be the most outstanding member of his class. This award is made on the basis of general leadership and character, scholarship and service. The faculty committee working on this award includes Clement Ketchum, chairman, Miss Margaret Abraham, Miss Ethel Carter, Miss Ruth Saeker and Werner Witte.

Other awards which will be presented at the 2 o'clock assembly include the trophies won at the recent state band tournament, the American Association of University Women scholarship for senior girls, the best all round senior athlete, scholastically eligible for the award and the Craftsmanship shield. For- enetics and athletic awards will be given also to outstanding students in these two fields.

The annual senior banquet will be held at 6:15 o'clock at the high school with Miss Irma Henry, member of faculty, in charge of the general committee.

Miss Catherine Spence, home arts instructor, is in charge of the menu for the banquet. Miss Sophia Haase will have charge of the menu program assisted by the student committee including the following students: Miss Bertha Reffke, chairman, William Zuelzke, David Dietrich, Miss Alice Mueller and Orme Stach.

Miss Esther Graef is the faculty advisor for banquet tickets, assisted by Wilmer Stach, chairman of the student committee with Charles Herzog.

The banquet program will be outlined by Leland DeLorge, faculty adviser and the following members on the student committee: James Neff, chairman, William Chopin, Miss Betty Elia, Frank Dean, Miss Marjorie Jacobson, Howard Rietz, William Wilson and Harvey Wolgram.

MAKE PLANS FOR SALE OF POPPIES

SALE OF POPPIES SATURDAY, MAY 28

American Legion Auxiliary to Take Charge of Sales in City

Plans for the sale of poppies, manufactured by disabled World war veterans, on Poppy day here Saturday, May 28, are being completed by a committee representing the Onay Johnston post of the American Legion and auxiliary. Members of the committee are: Mrs. Stanley A. Staidl and Mrs. Fred Heinritz, of the auxiliary, and John E. Hantschel of the legion. Members of the auxiliary will conduct the sale.

The group this year has a supply of 7,000 poppies for sale on the streets and 500 larger-size flowers which will be sold to stores for decorating windows. Last year the committee sold 6,500 small poppies and 300 large ones and netted $732.11. A total of 44 women took part in the sales campaign last year and about as many are expected to work again this year.

Poppies are manufactured by disabled veterans in hospitals who receive no government compensation and the sale of the flowers enables them to earn money to provide themselves with funds, the committee points out. All of the money realized from the sale of the poppies is used for direct service among World War veterans and their dependants.

OHIO COUNTIES AND CITIES GET AID FROM STATE

Relief Funds Appropriated to Help Ease Unemployment Situation

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1932 by Post Pub. Co.

Columbus, Ohio—The budget has been balanced here, thanks to the economy program of Gov. George White and a cooperating legislature, but the state of Ohio has had to come to the rescue of counties and municipalities in aid of the unemployed. Balanced budgets alone do not make jobs.

The legislature in special session appropriated $22,000,000 for unemployment relief, sums being made available in the form of loans to the counties. Eleven million dollars was raised by a tax on gross business of public utilities. An equal amount was diverted from gasoline revenues so that if the counties wished to do so they could use the money for purposes other than highway building.

Nineteen thousand families are being fed in Cleveland, nine thousand families here, and a large number in Cincinnati, Youngstown and Cincinnati. City budgets plus private charity are being strained to the utmost. The Cleveland dole has been reduced from $24.50 per month to $4.75 per week for each distressed family. A virtual moratorium on rent paying has cut the income of the small landlord and placed him in jeopardy, too.

Gain in Confidence
But the spirit of the people remains hopeful. Business men talk of the future with more confidence every day. Whether it is the fact that the middle west breathes a different air and, in almost everything, is a contrast to the cities on the other side of the Alleghenies, or because agriculture is no small factor in Ohio's economic welfare—for the farmer can at least produce the food he eats—the fact remains that Ohio is talking politics and prohibition and not so much sales tax or federal deficits.

This week's primaries revealed that Governor White, a rugged and wholesome type, with a long record of service in the state militia, is having the 52 delegates from this state to the national convention, and he is no stalking horse for Franklin D. Roosevelt either.

Ohio has her own ideas about the presidential race. She has three outstanding citizens to offer—the governor and Newton D. Baker and James M. Cox. All three are talked about and while Mr. White is the only active candidate and will have the solid support of his delegation, there are not a few hereabouts who think that this state may, after a deadlock, furnish the compromise candidate.

Baker Often Mentioned
Mr. Baker's name is heard frequently outside of Ohio as a possible beneficiary of a deadlock and he is being quietly boomed by his friends. Mr. Cox has more or less withdrawn from active politics, but nevertheless he is well liked by the Smith faction and it will be recalled he ran with Franklin Roosevelt in 1920. His defeat by Warren G. Harding 12 years ago is not held against him in this state, in view of the troubles subsequently developed by the Harding regime.

Whether at the top of the ticket or in the vice presidency, Ohio believes somehow the three men mentioned—White, Baker, and Cox—will figure in the finale.

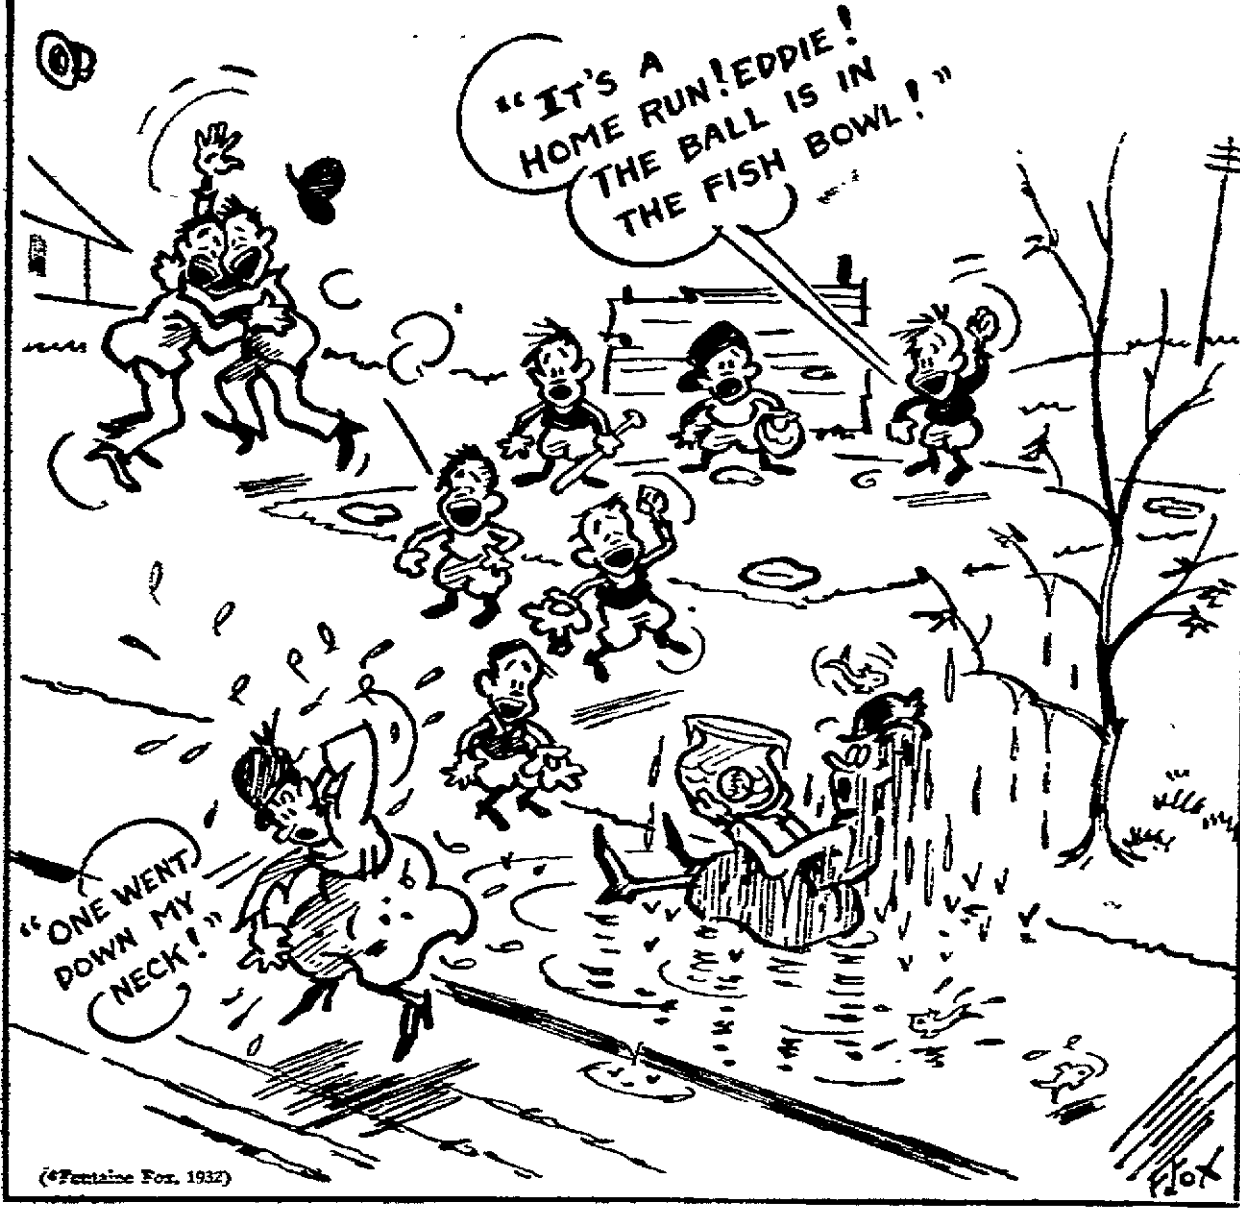

The national administration is deeply interested in how Ohio will vote and the outcome of the Republican primary for governor has left no ill-effects. For David Ingalls, 32-year-old aviation ace, now assistant secretary of the navy, and a popular figure in Cleveland, is to make the race. He ran on the wet side against two dries who together polled more votes than he did. So the Anti-Saloon league refuses to concede that the party has changed its point of view about prohibition. A wet, Attorney General Gilbert Birtman, defeated in a mixed race Louis Taber, master of the National Grange and an Anti-Saloon league man, for the Republican nomination for the United States senate in opposition to Senator Bulkley, Democrat. So two wets will oppose each other in the Ohio senatorial contest next fall.

President Hoover is gaining in strength but some of his ardent admirers here concede that if the election were held tomorrow he could not be sure of Ohio's electoral votes. There is a feeling here that politics is hanging like a cloud over the business situation and that if congress should adjourn before the national political contest and leave its duties until next autumn, a better psychological situation will be produced.

The legislature here is to be called together next Monday for what may be a record in special sessions. An amendment to the banking laws permitting loans to be made on the assets of closed banks, has been found necessary to obtain the cooperation of the reconstructed financing corporation. Governor White thinks it will take only 24 hours. The last time the legislature met it was here only three days. If there were similar promptness and expedition on the part of congress as there is in

NEW SHREDDED BISCUIT MAKING BIG HIT

Grocers Say Housewives Welcome Many Improvements in Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit

Local grocers have pronounced the new Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit one of the most up-to-date food products on the market. It offers many outstanding and popular features. For one thing, the biscuits are toasted a golden brown on both top and bottom—not just one side.

The new Kellogg's Biscuit is also baked in a more convenient, economical size. Two biscuits just fit the cereal bowl—and you get 15 to the package instead of a dozen.

Mothers will especially be interested in the fact that every package is certified for food value by the Medical Arts Laboratory of Philadelphia. These new biscuits are considered a splendid food for both adults and children. With either hot or cold milk, you achieve a well-balanced amount of vitamins, minerals, proteins and carbohydrates.

The Kellogg Company uses a special process of "pressure-cooking" which retains all the food value of the whole wheat and makes it very easy to digest. At the same time it develops delicious flavor.

These improved biscuits can be identified by the name, Kellogg's, and the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

REAFFIRMS FAITH IN STUDENT BODY

Schools Greatest Bulwarks Against Loose Thinking, Says Frank

Madison—(P)—Schools today are the nation's greatest bulwarks against loose thinking, loose living, cynicism and social irresponsibility. Pres. Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin said in an international radio broadcast yesterday.

Pres. Frank's subject, "The Great Unchecked," gave his views on some aspects of the universities of the United States.

He said the picture of American colleges of a quarter century ago is now obsolete but that popular misconceptions of the college youth remain.

"The 'rah' rah' college lad' conceived only with saxophones and a synthetic girl is still the popular notion of the modern American undergraduate, despite the fact that, save for the morose minority of students, this picture has become long since a lie," Pres. Frank said.

After nearly seven years of contact with a student body of approximately 10,000, I venture to challenge this musical comedy version of the American undergraduate.

Pres. Frank reaffirmed his faith in the intellectual honesty of American students, and expressed the opinion that there is a lower percentage of "ukelele addicts" among college students than among the general population of the country.

The speaker traced the effect of the economic depression upon American colleges and warned that the next decade may see a withdrawal of some public support of schools in this country.

"There is," he said, "a powerful temptation to trump up false charges against our public institutions and to use these charges as a smoke screen behind which to hide our slackening loyalty to the basic agencies of our social order."

"The problem confronting us in the decade ahead," he added, "is to keep our schools free from cheap political control, support them with the fullest adequacy our restricted resources will permit, make the rewards and opportunities of the teaching profession such that we shall stop drawing our best genius off to other callings, and give the schools a real chance to play a creative part in the salvaging and stabilizing of our civilization."

Engineers have always known that the triangle was the strongest bracing construction in the world.

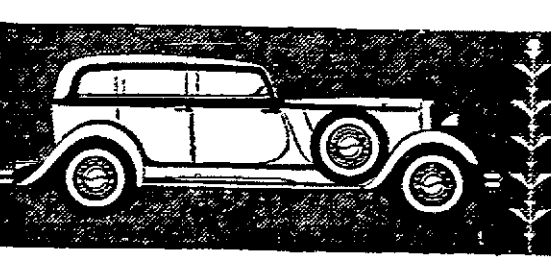

Airplane engineers found that a series of triangles connecting motor to fuselage withstood the terrific vibration and stress of flying.

And Hupmobile engineers discovered that the airplane principle of airplane bracing could be applied to cars... forever eliminating front-end shimmy, weaving, and vibration.

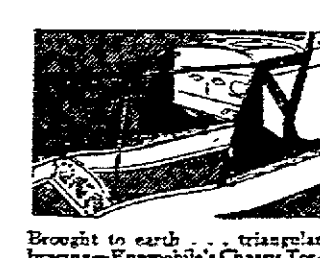

It is Hupmobile's exclusive patent—the chassis torsional stabilizer.

And it is only one feature of the "Hundred Feature" Hupmobile. Only one—99 others in this super-value car.

WHERE HELP IS NEEDED
Wisconsin dairymen, made desperate by declining milk prices, already far below the cost of production, are threatening drastic measures unless help is received from some source. Producers in the Milwaukee area have petitioned the governor to look into their problem and have threatened a strike unless they are helped, while in other sections of the state dairymen are seriously considering dumping milk until famine compels a higher price.

The situation has become so serious that it no longer is merely a farmer's problem. It affects every citizen in the state, most of them in a most direct manner. Because so large a percentage of our farmers are almost entirely dependent upon their milk checks for their livelihood, the depressed price of their product has created a condition in which desperation rather than reason is likely to guide their actions and a catastrophe is not an impossibility.

Any banker dealing with farmers can tell of the desperate plight of dairymen who are without means to keep their cattle from starving, to provide clothes for their children or medicines for their families. They know from intimate experience the condition of the farmer whose milk checks have shrunk until they do not begin to pay for the cost of feed required to produce the milk. It is not merely a case of diminishing returns but of returns practically extinct.

The Outagamie county board has indicated an interest in the farmer's condition by appropriating $500 to assist in organization of a cooperative milk pool, but the present situation would indicate that something more than this casual interest is necessary. Cooperation among the farmers no doubt is a step toward remedying their situation, but it would appear that this cooperation must include more than the producers to accomplish anything worthwhile. It calls for cooperation from the distributors, from the consumers, from businessmen, from labor, from everyone who has an interest in maintaining agriculture as a producing unit.

That the farmers are quite unable to find their own way out of the difficulties is evidenced by the multiplicity of cooperatives, pools and other organizations seeking to point the way. Each has its own set of theories and plans and arguments, and the farmer is left in confusion as well as despondency.

It may be that those who presently are seeking to point the way out are so close to the farmers' problem that they cannot see it all, and that the leadership must come from men not connected with agriculture but who have the capacity and the will to master its problems. But whether this leadership is found within or without the ranks of agriculture it must come soon to save the industry from complete demoralization. Already foreclosed and abandoned farms is a problem of huge proportions. There is no telling what next winter will bring unless the farmer can recover at least the cost of seed and feed and taxes from the sale of his products. Our Appleton businessmen and commercial leaders no doubt have their own individual problems to worry them, but few of these problems are more pressing for consideration than the troubles of their farmer neighbors. Probably very little can be done to eradicate our individual troubles until we find a way to help the farmer out of his.

THE MOTOR INDUSTRY
Being now our basic industry the public naturally has a vital interest in the motor trade's crusade to find the market that its leaders feel sure exists. In the struggle against the prevailing adversities no more outstanding example can be given of courage and faith in the future than is expressed by the motor car manufacturers in their drive for business.

President Hoover has recognized the place of the industry in the country's economic scheme in urging the purchase of motor cars by those able to do so as a means of providing widespread employment.

Probably never before in our industrial history have greater values been offered in exchange for the public's money. The manufacturers have admitted to the buyer that it is his market. Though every commodity is lower in price today, the motor car is the outstanding example of the emphatic statements of manufacturers and retailers that values are unprecedented. Any comparative analysis but discloses the striking gain in the automotive dollar value.

Had the motor manufacturers made no improvement in cars, prices alone would have been a conspicuous victory for the industry. But with betterments that several years of normal times might not have induced, combined with prices so low that profit must be all but negligible, the motor industry's challenge to the depression is worthy of public recognition.

COMMERCIALIZING INJURIES
A story, so cruel and sickening in its details as to challenge credulity, is being developed before the Illinois State Medical Board in a proceeding against a physician for extortion and malpractice.

Claims made in this and other cases, dovetailed together, show a practice in some cities of physicians paying policemen a fee for bringing them accident cases, or delivering the cases at certain hospitals under their ownership or control. Few see anything particularly sinister about that practice. But it has vicious angles.

In some cases it is found that the physician forms a combination with a lawyer and uses the confidential nature of his relationship with his patient to induce the latter to hire the particular lawyer, grossly exaggerating the alleged marvelous ability of the lawyer in order to accomplish the design.

It is then found that the lawyer makes a contract with the patient to turn over to him a percentage of the amount recovered, often fifty per cent and in some cases running to 75 per cent. The supposition, from the developments, is that the fee is split between the doctor and the lawyer.

Already the plot is thick enough but now it is about to take on a diabolical turn.

Charges are made, particularly in those cases where it is conceded a right of recovery exists and that someone responsible must pay the damage, that the physician in order to increase that damage pursues a course of treatment either in further mutilation of the patient such as permitting gangrene to develop in limbs, necessitating their amputation; or so acts as to aggravate the injury causing a long period of intense suffering and sometimes, through inability to gauge the patient's resistance power accurately, resulting in death.

Here indeed are men who would make Dr. Jekyll a prosaic study for children; they would make Fagin, Dickens' instructor of criminals, a kindly and soft-hearted man. They are fit associates for kidnappers.

A few years ago the Wisconsin supreme court was subjected to political criticism because of its stern treatment of ambulance chasing lawyers. The critics were lacking in the experience common to courts in these matters.

The court is as indifferent as the last Inca of Peru as to where the business goes but it is fully aware that the rushing and commercialism of business of this nature has almost invariably bred evils of the most wicked hue, one of the most prevalent being a system of promptings and training or perjury schools in order to make cases where there are none and to aggravate those that are genuine.

That is the fundamental reason why the courts will not tolerate these methods in handling injury cases. They know that the wrongs that pile up in their wake are directly attributable to the greed for money and the relatively easy way to get it when human sympathy for the injured is coined by a conspiracy of sharpers.

But our courts probably never dreamed that ambulance chasing would develop along the fiendish lines exposed in Illinois.

The fishing cat of India is one of the truly known animals of the world. This feline crouches nightly near the edges of rivers and scoops fish out of the water with its paw.

WE DIDN'T mention it yesterday because we didn't want you to spend all of last night worrying and possibly not coming downtown or going anywhere today or maybe staying in bed . . . yes, it was FRIDAY THE THIRTEENTH when it is werra werra dangerous to do anything or try anything . . . Friday the Thirteenth is unlucky for you superstitious werra werra . . . almost anything can happen to you that couldn't possibly happen on other days . . . so, if you go anywhere, be sure to cross your fingers and carry a rabbit's foot, keep the umbrella closed in the house, be careful about the black cats and ladders . . . that is, if it's not too late . . . and we hope to goodness that none of you tried to sing before breakfast . . . in fact, that some of you didn't try to sing at all . . . yep, we sing the same way . . . not good, but loud . . .

Often we rebel at the injustice of our fate. We started in the column-writing business in 1930, just a couple months after the stock market crash and the beginning of the toboggan ride down the hill. Since that time there has been more and more bad news. And this column, pals, is supposed to be amusing.

Well, We Met the Doctor
As was mentioned yesterday, we took our opportunity to meet Doc Spears Wednesday night. We did not go up just to be able to say we'd shaken hands with him. There's no point in that. There was a legitimate opportunity to meet and, in a private, informal way, away from the banquet rooms, hear him talk.

He's a prince of a fellow. In appearance he resembles George Little, formerly athletic director at Wisconsin who did so much for the state and its university and got a kick in the pants for a reward.

He's a bit wary. Rightly so. Newspapers, barber shop coaches and miscellaneous admirers have been on his neck ever since he arrived. He talked in Milwaukee on Tuesday, twice, we believe. He talked in Menomonee Wednesday noon in Green Bay that night. At nine thirty Wednesday night he was sending out to drive to Oshkosh where he was scheduled to speak at three different places on Thursday and then go on to Prairie du Chien and do it again.

"Are you bushed," we asked him.

He smiled, wearily, "A little—and I've got a pretty tough cold." But he wasn't letting down, either.

On the favorite Green Bay topic—"Could a college team beat the Packers," he showed his ability as a diplomat. Doc doesn't quite agree with the Green Bay maniacs. He has good reason for not liking to agree with them. But, if you can disagree with a Packers coach and make him like it, then you're good.

Doing things like that, folks, is only a part of a coach's job, too. He has to coach football, too.

RETURN

Time was he used to scoff and sneer
And laugh at simple faith and creeds.
But now when there is much to fear
He finds 'tis simple faith he needs.

When all was well and skies were fair
In arrogance the path he strode;
But now alone he kneels in prayer
And asks for strength to bear the load.

He called old teachings dull and trite
And thought success held peace of mind;
But now when things aren't going right
He seeks the joys he left behind.

Though cruel are the hurt and pain
When once the flood of loss recedes,
Men may as last return again
To simple faith and simple creeds.

WHEN YOU GET ALL HOT AND THEN CHILLED TRY TO KEEP COOL

A reader who puts a question which I think many others would like to ask, only they hate to embarrass me so much, wants to know about people exposing themselves to a cool breeze, say from an electric fan, when they are overheated and perspiring from hard work or play or exercise. This reader doesn't believe that is harmless but would like to be convinced.

I have never believed it is harmless. All I contend is that no one suffers any illness from such exposure. I know very well that too sudden cooling off after warming up that way is likely to bring a lot of soreness and lameness in the muscles involved. That is a mechanical effect. It is unpleasant and for a while it may partly disable the victim, but it never makes him ill. The working of muscles involves the burning of fuel, blood sugar, glycogen or animal starch, as it is called. The combustion of this produces an acid akin to lactic acid. Lactic acid is the acid which is produced in souring milk by the fermentation of the milk sugar (lactose) by the lactic bacillus which is naturally present in milk in large numbers.

When the work of exertion is violent of course there is an increased oxidation of blood sugar and an increased production of the acid ash. The circulation increases in volume and rate at the same time, but sooner or later, according to the individual's physical condition, the production of acid material gets too far ahead of the capacity of the circulation and then the acid waste matter begins to accumulate in and about the overworked muscles. That has something—we don't know just how much—to do with physical fatigue. Anyway, the worker or player begins to tire and takes a rest. That gives the circulation a chance to catch up. If the individual is in good physical training, he will not suffer any great soreness or fatigue next day, even though he be careless about cooling off too quickly. If he is in poor condition, unaccustomed to athletic activity, he is likely to find himself pretty sore next day, even though he is as careful as a museum mummy about undue exposure to the air.

Two sudden coolings of the surface of the region reflexly tightens up the circulation in the muscles beneath, and retards the carrying off of the acid waste matter, which then acts as a local irritant, and so causes soreness and lameness.

All of this applies only to over-heating from muscular exertion. It has no bearing on overheating from any external source, such as a hot bath or hot air. No possible harm comes from as sudden cooling as one takes after such passive overheating. There is absolutely no good reason why anybody should hesitate to go in swimming when overheated from the weather. The matter of sweating has nothing to do with the question in any case. Contrary to a popular notion, fostered by the teachings of near-doctors and quack-doctors who just divine things and never bother much about physiology, there is no possible harm in the sudden apprehension cooling of profuse sweating, whether the sweating is produced passively or by active exertion.

I want to tell you that a suggestion in your column namely the occasional snuffing of a pinch of boric acid powder into the nostrils, has given me more relief for chronic catarrh (oh, oh, maybe it's sinusitis) than I have obtained in 10 years of experience with nose and throat specialists. (W. A.)

Answer—The man convinced against his will holds to the same opinion still. Cheese has nothing to do with it. Your old habit is stronger than your new way of thinking, that's all. I notice you still call it a trouble, which means you still regard it as an ailment. That's why I insist that readers writing for the booklet on "The Constipation Habit" tell me they have the habit. I have no treatment or cure for constipation. The booklet merely teaches how to break a bad habit. Inclose with your request a dime and a stamped envelope bearing your correct address.

THE Tinies dragged their boat across the sand. Then they were at a loss to know just what they ought to do. Said Scouty, "Well, we're here."

"Shall we start searching 'round about, or shall we just stand here and shout? I've looked in all directions and there's not one person near."

"If this isle is deserted we are as unlucky as can be. The water king, however, said that we would have some fun."

"There must be someone on this isle. I hope he lives within a mile. I think we'd best do something, ere the sinking of the sun."

Then Duncy broke right in and said, "I want to rest my weary head. Right now the sun is sinking fast and it soon will be night."

"Whatever fun there is will keep. Let's crawl into the boat and sleep. As long as we behave ourselves, I'm sure we'll meet no harm."

"I'm for that plan," was Windy said. And so the whole bunch went to bed. All through the night they slept rest sound. At dawn they all felt great.

Kid Scouty sprung a big surprise. It was a sight for hungry eyes. He had a box of crackers which the Tinies quickly ate.

While they were eating, from nearby there came a funny sort of cry. "Hey, listen!" whispered Copy. "Someone's singing. It sounds grand."

And then a fat man came in view. He smiled and shouted, "Howdy do! If you was too are seeking play, I'll gladly lend a hand."

"I'm Old Man Flay, himself, you see, and it is always up to me to see that was told have their fun. Please follow at my heels. I'll willingly lead all of you to where there is a lot to do before I'm finished. I'm sure you'll know how real play feels."

Seen And Heard In New York
BY WILLIAM GAINES.

New York—Within about an hour and a half of leisurely driving from New York town, oxen still pull the plow on a small New Jersey farm.

Candles are burned in the farm house, yet from a hillside to the rear the Empire state tower may be seen on a clear day.

Three elderly sisters and their brother have fortified themselves against the encroachments of modernism on this property. The man, I'm told, has ridden in an automobile when offered that means of getting to the polling place to cast his vote. The women never have.

Montclair is the city nearest their place. They sell chickens and milk and raise all the foodstuffs they need for themselves. The costumes of the women make no compromise with the fashions of the day. There is a sort of dream-like character to these people and their haven.

The Lindbergh story brought to notice the Sour Mountain folk who have been out against the devices of this civilization. And they are just a matter of across the river over the hill from Broadway.

There's something reassuring in the knowledge that there is escape from all the frills and bullbats so close at hand. Nothing is much more depressing than the thought of one big New York stretching from coast to coast.

Brooklynese

The small daughter of a couple I know has been attending an "experimental" school. Among the pupils are some little girls who come from the fa reaches of Brooklyn, who have endeared themselves to our heroine.

Apparently the Brooklynese accent of these youngsters has availed against the best efforts of pedagogical experimenters.

When the mother was preparing supper the other evening, she asked her 7-year-old pride and joy to hand her the dough roller.

"But mother, it's not 'holter.' It's 'boller,'" came the serious and triumphant correction.

Personality Puffs

One of the most intense personalities I have ever encountered is Mme. Frances Alda. Once a grand lady of the Metropolitan, she still is youthful in appearance, positive in speech and the years have taken little of the quality from her voice.

She is gracious, but she is truly the high-strung prima donna. It's an exaggeration, of course, but it gives you some idea of this electric woman when I say you sit on the edge of your chair when she is talking.

Mme. Alda has avoided the avoirdupois which overtakes some ladies of the opera; good fortune, indeed, now that she has turned to the vaudeville stage.

Stitch McCarthy, chieftain of the neighborhood mayors, whose grand passion is pinocle, now has the ideas for a "world's series" in one of the big open air arenas—he'd prefer Yankee stadium. Pinocle players from the country and the whole world over would be invited to participate.

There's one big difficulty with such a project this year, says Stutch. Many of our best pinoclers are political patriarchs in their home wards, and 1932 is their busy year.

A Bystander In Washington
BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—It is interesting, and at times highly amusing, to watch the reaction of the democrats on the hill these days following a particular significant presidential primary.

As convention time draws nearer and the Smith-Roosevelt fracas becomes more heated, these politically-minded members of congress—and that includes about all of them—are quick to gather in little clusters the morning after to talk things over.

In the cloakrooms, over the lunch tables in the senate restaurant, and in the corridors of the capitol they are to be found.

Take, for example, the day following the primaries in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania when the "brown derby" appeared so ominously on the political horizon. There were worried looks and broad grins aplenty around the separate chamber.

For both Smith and Roosevelt have their friends there. They don't say much for publication, but among themselves they say a great deal.

Keep A Close Watch

Roosevelt, perhaps, has more outspoken supporters in the capital than has Smith. There are, for example, men like Senator Dill of Washington, Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the democratic keynoter, and Senator Wheeler of Montana.

But all of them show an interest in the political situation, whoever their favorite candidate may be.

They carry tables showing the estimated strength of each candidate around in their pockets. Almost any of them can show you a telegram from someone "in that section" giving the inside dope on tell you about a long distance telephone conversation he had a few hours before that gave good news.

Daily they have visitors from various sections of the country who supply information.

The senate chamber and cloakrooms serve as a clearing house for all this information. It is here they analyze, debate, and worry about the situation.

Friendly Razzing

Their republican colleagues and friends are a big kick out of these little impromptu conferences. Often as one passes a cluster of democrats with their heads together and talking earnestly he indulges in a little razzing.

"You boys would do better if you'd get over to the house side," one republican called to one of these groups the other day, "and keep 'em from doing with the economy bill what they did to the tax bill."

"Wait until the democrats in the house get through," called out another. "Then it won't be important who wins the democratic nomination for President."

But their democratic brethren merely smile and continue earnestly on their way.

After a recent drive on bookmakers, many Ohio barber shops actually had to hire barbers.

STABLE PRICE MEASURE NEW SLUMP REMEDY

Goldsborough Stabilization Bill Said to Be Sure Cure for Depression

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington — Once more we must caper about, clasp hands and exclaim, "Oh, good!"
The nation is again to be rescued from the trough of depression.
It's the same depression from which we were rescued at the outset by a $100,000,000 tax reduction by the White House conference of industrialists who promised not to cut wages but to do business as usual, and by repeated official assurances that the corner had been turned. And, more recently, by the debt moratorium, the bankers' pool, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Glass-Steagall bill and a variety of minor measures whose cumulative effect was guaranteed to melt frozen credits and whirl the wheels of industry.

Democrats Offer
The latest sure-fire recipe for restoration of prosperity is the Goldsborough stabilization bill, passed overwhelmingly by the House. It differs from nearly all the others because it was instigated and sponsored by Democrats rather than by the administration.
The bill is based on the theory that the government can raise, lower and maintain prices by controlling the amount of credit available. It instructs the Federal Reserve to restore prices to the average of the 1921-29 period and keep them there. The Reserve is supposed to keep on buying up government securities, thus making money and credit available to the bank in increasing quantity.
The bill's most enthusiastic friends say the prospect of pre-depression prices and the expanded credit will revive confidence, get banks to lending and business men borrowing, retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers buying and everybody back to work.

Decline Bemoaned
It's a credit inflation — or "reflation" measure — and seems to have been rushed through partly to stall off such demands as those for inflation, soldiers' bonus currency and bimetalism. The House Banking and Currency Committee, reporting it, said the debts of the country couldn't be paid unless the price level was raised and that unless it was raised "the business of the country is headed for inevitable bankruptcy."

Producers and debtors struggled under an ever-increasing burden as prices declined, the committee said, asserting that the Reserve banks, by open market operations and use of the Glass-Steagall provisions to release gold by using government securities to cover part of their currency, could put nearly nine billion dollars into the market.

Will It Work
There does, however, seem to be a sad, large doubt whether prices can be raised by this piece of legislation. Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, father of the Reserve Act, doesn't think they can.
The Reserve Board tried the same thing last summer, with no results. Since January it has bought up about $500,000,000 worth of government securities in the open market, with the idea of expanding credit and raising prices only to find that loans and investments continue to shrink. Also prices.

The trouble seems to be that not only do bankers fear to lend, but

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

APPLYING THE BRAKES

When the Dealer, at the Contract table, opens with a Forcing bid of two in a suit, and Second Hand passes, the Responding Hand faces a serious responsibility. He may be too conservative, and stop the bidding at game, when a Slam was easily attainable in the bidding, and makable in the play. On the other hand, he may be too optimistic, and bid for a Slam on playing-tricks, neglecting to take into account tricks that must be lost in the play to adversely held Aces and Kings.

In the recent World Bridge Olympic, held by the National Bridge association simultaneously throughout the world, more than 50,000 players, for the first time in history, played the same hands in competition with each other. Hand No. 6 was one of a number of the hands opened with a Forcing bid of two in a suit. The responsibility for the reaching of a safe contact on this hand rested with North, for South had a very big hand, and one well calculated to cause him to yield to the lure of a Slam. The responsibility, in the play, however, came back to the Declarer, and those who failed to follow the correct principles of hand development found that their contract, instead of being achieved, was defeated. The hand and bidding were:

The Bidding:
(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
2♠(1)	Pass	2NT(2)	Pass
3♠(3)	Pass	4♠(4)	Pass
4♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—With two biddable suits and 5½ honor-tricks, the Opening Forcing bids of two ♠s, of course, clearly indicated.
2—North has no other response.
3—Offering partner a choice.
4—While many players might here bid three notrump, South's Opening bid and his Rebid should suggest to North the danger of playing the hand at notrump, as neither diamonds nor hearts are stopped in the North hand, and the bidding has that business men don't dare borrow. Obviously there's a need of confidence, but confidence in these days seems to demand something on which to rest. The Goldsborough bill, consequently, may not rescue us for some time to come.

Oppose Heads
It is not altogether clear, furthermore, why Congress must pass a law instructing the Reserve to do something it is already trying to do. One thought behind it is that by declaring the 1921-29 price policy, Congress will make the Reserve keep right on buying up federal bonds instead of stopping, whereas the Reserve heads oppose the bill because they want to be allowed to use their own discretion. And of course there's the old familiar "psychological" factor, invariably stressed prior to past rescues.

There are, however, certain low-indicated that either one of these suits or the other is short in the South hand. Game at Hearts appears more probable than game at no-trump.

In order to make the contract of five clubs, an appreciation of the correct principles of play was required. West opened the heart King, and South ruffed the second round of that suit with the Ten. The adverse trumps were drawn in two leads, the second round being won with the club 9, and a heart led from Dummy, which was ruffed in the closed hand. The Ace, King and Queen of spades were then cashed, and the losing spade in the closed hand trumped in the Dummy. Thus, both hearts and spades were eliminated from the North and South hands. To the tenth trick, the Ten of diamonds was led from the Dummy, and East naturally covered with the Knave. South played the Queen West won with the King, but could do nothing then except return the suit or lead a heart, which would permit the Declarer to ruff in one hand and discard in the other.

TODAY'S POINTER
When the bidding is opened with a Forcing bid of two in the suit, the Responsibility Hand has a double responsibility. If he holds values that make a Slam probable, he should disclose them to his partner. If his holding is such as to make a Slam well impossible, his first response to the Force should be a minimum.

Make Home Ideal Place For Children

BY ANGELO PATRI

One of the causes of friction between parents and their adolescent children is the refusal of the grown-up people to share home with the children. The father and mother built the home little by little. They wove themselves into every table and chair, every rug and hanging and ornament. They look with almost reverent affection at the piano for which they saved and planned through many months. The dining room set was bought with self-sacrifices—concerts, trips, gifts to dear ones, all had to be forgotten if the table and sideboard were to grace the house. Anniversaries and holidays and high days shadowed with days not so high have been knitted into the fabric of home. Then like a thunderclap from a clear sky, the children for whom all this was done, want to take charge. They claim this home. Whose is it? That is the question. Whose home is this? You cannot have a home if one member of the family is left out of it. The moment one child or one parent is excluded from the home ownership the spirit which is the home vanishes and all that is left is a skeleton, grisly enough. There is nothing so forlorn as the house from which home has fled. The whole group must be counted in, father and mother and the most unreasonable of the children as well.

This makes it hard for the parents who have applied themselves to building the home with never a thought of the day when the children would lay claim to a share in it. They have to adjust themselves to this new idea. The living room must be changed to meet the demands of the dancing group. Father cannot sit by the fire and read and smoke as he used to do when the children stayed in the study room doing their lessons. He must give place to the group and take his turn in the study room. There is no other way.

Bedtime for the grown-ups, the tired father and mother, comes early. Not so for the adolescent boys and girls. They want to stay up late. They want to turn on the radio and listen, or drown it out with their own voices. They want to dance and play cards and then have a supper. What's to be done? You'll have to compromise because home must be shared. The children must be met more than half way. This is as trying a period as teething time. You had to rise in the night and stand by again and again. This is another teaching time, that's all. You'll have to see it through with as little pain to yourself as possible. Remember this as you grumble and sigh.

The children are getting ready to leave home. Soon the house will be empty. Soon the spirit of home will have to spread its wings to cover a wide area of space and affection. All that will be left of this home you built will be memories. It is better to make them as cheerful and happy as you can, for your own sake.

Hard is it? Didn't you do the same thing? After your father and mother before you? Share home with the children, spread it as far as you can so as to get into the habit of it for soon it will cover a much bigger group and far wider span. What you share you keep is true in this instance if not in all others.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

the STORY OF SUE

By Margery Hale

RUTH STAGES A REBELLION
 "THERE is nothing in all the world that I would appreciate more than getting even with Sally," Sue answered Ruth's statement very promptly. "She has a lot coming to her and I'd like to deliver part of it, at least. What should I do? And when?"

Sue looked at Ruth as she spoke. She hoped that the other girl was going to snap out of her marriage and be human. She needed to take her own part and let Sally down a time or two.

Sue went on talking when Ruth didn't answer. "I used to have some of the humility and meekness that you have but I think I'm getting rid of it. I hope so. I'm not going in for long-suffering any more. It doesn't pay."

"I've just decided that it doesn't, either," Ruth shot back. "I sat there like a fool tonight and offered to hurt myself by helping Sally. I suppose when people make themselves into door mats other people can't be blamed for walking on them. That seems to be the reason that doormats are on the ground. But I'm through."

"What are you going to do?" Sue asked. Ruth's eyes were flashing. Dark brown fires glowed in them. Her chin was stubborn. "Whatever you do, do it right away."

"First, I'm going to tell you fairly how Sally forged the check. Then you had better notify Arnold Page. At first I thought he didn't know the details. But I guess he had. Sally wouldn't save anyone else."

Sue listened while Ruth talked. When she finished she started to laugh.

"Don't you see, Ruth? Sally's played right into your hand. You have got her where you want her. And you have to keep her there. As far as that is concerned, I would have to tell Arnold anyway. There isn't another way out."

Sue reached for the telephone. Dished the Page residence. Told the facts as briefly as possible. When she hung up she swung around to Ruth.

"Now what's your plan?"

"Sally is going to the board and tell them that I didn't have anything to do with that Hal Prichard stunt. . . that I wasn't a friend of his. I'm tired of being spotted with other people's mud."

"But she can't. You should have spoken up at the time Ruth. It's too late. You'll have to wait for a chance."

"And go on being her target? I won't!" She jumped up. Angry crimson spots were flaming in her cheeks. Her ankle hurt and she sat down very quickly. "I won't go on like this. Something inside is going to snap. And snap hard!"

"Drink some tea," Sue said, and wondered what she herself would have done if anyone had made such a senseless remark to her when she was feeling the same way. Thrown it at them, she believed, and her eyes laughed a little as she thought of the surprising splash she would have made.

But the smile infuriated Ruth. "Oh, I know you're laughing at me. You think I'm a dumb sort of person who hasn't enough spunk to—to—" She reached for her coat.

"But I have! I'm going home and tell Sally what I think of her. And tell Joe Raynor what an egg he is. Then I never want to see either of them ever again. Never!"

Before Sue could answer she was gone. A black figure flying down the road.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

MEN ARE NOT MIND-READERS—LET THEM IN ON YOUR GRIEVANCES

Dear Virginia Vane: I married six months ago and certainly can't say I've had much happiness out of it. I found that my husband was irritating and showed very little consideration for me. I never quarreled with him or in any way tried to make trouble, just put up with everything to keep peace but I got tired of it all finally and left him to go back home. I consider that he has behaved very strangely since—as he has never written an apology to me or begged my forgiveness. I know I love him but wouldn't you think he would try to make amends with a loving note or a promise to do better in the future? He writes but simply demands that I come back home and accuses me of not loving him, selfishness, etc. Please give a word of advice to LILLIAN.

It doesn't seem to have occurred to you that your husband may be entirely in the dark as to the cause of your departure. Although you say you have been guilty of thoughtless behavior, it is not to be supposed that he was intentionally hurting or annoying you. On the contrary he probably thought he was getting along beautifully, until he came home one day to find that his wife had up and left.

Then he must quite naturally have jumped to the conclusion that you'd ceased to love him—or that you'd decided to give up matrimony for good. He's not a mind-reader, you know, and from your own account you never gave him the slightest cause to suspect that all was not going well.

As a matter of fact you've both got to adjust yourselves to each other and the process is not always agreeable. Very often during this period of adjustment a few plain words spoken now and then with some heartiness do a lot of harm. They help to clear the air and give the two young people involved a clear idea of how they feel about each other.

It's useless to keep all this irritation, annoyance, disappointment, etc., bottled up forever. You should have talked over the situation with your husband and given him a chance to help you straighten it out. As it is, you've left him completely baffled and it is no wonder that he refuses to apologize when he probably is still wondering what there is to apologize for.

If you love him go back to him and try to start all over again. Explain to him what it's all about and see if you two can't come to a more harmonious understanding. You ought to be able to manage it, as long as you resolutely make up your mind not to demand too much and not to feel that you have the only real grounds for complaint. I only real grounds for complaint, I think there's his side of the argument, too and maybe it's worth listening to.

Find Out The Trouble
 W. W.: You seem to be another poor male whose lady has assumed that he knows exactly what crime he has committed and who is therefore unwilling to have anything more to do with him until he apologizes.

It certainly looks as if you'd put your foot into it somehow but you'll never know just what you did wrong, unless you take your courage in both hands, face the truth, you'll probably be told that you ought to KNOW and you'll have to do a good deal of apologizing for not being intelligent enough to have grasped the full significance of something or other you've done or haven't done. But the chances are that the whole thing will be straightened out, since the girl probably didn't want to stay mad with you—only until her hurt pride has been soothed, she finds it quite impossible to bear the thought of you.

Make up your mind therefore to eat a good deal of humble pie, and find out the truth.

For Spring Wear

Here's a charming little frock of crepe silk print so cool and lovely. It's such a splendid dress to wear 'neath your spring coat to complete an ensemble.

The neckline is particularly becoming and slimming. And don't you like the sleeves finished with a flounced ruffle? The curved hip seaming is slenderizing too. The paneled front and lack of the skirt gives the figure elegant height.

And it's as simple as A, B, C to put this model together.

It is very effective and cool in cotton prints, tub silks, handkerchief linen prints and batiste prints for your summer wear.

Style No. 2553 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 35, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust.

Size 35 requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material with a yard of 35-inch contrasting.

AT SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINT HEADQUARTERS

Money-Saving SWP HOUSE PAINT covers more surface

What makes SWP House Paint hide the surface so much better and cover so much more surface per gallon? Superior quality of materials and manufacture.

Money-saving SWP is not just an "assembled" paint made of nondescript materials. In order to be certain of the quality of the materials used, Sherwin-Williams make or control the pigments themselves. The linseed oil is crushed, refined and aged by S.W. The handsome colors and clear-toned tints are chemically evolved in Sherwin-Williams' own color works. Every process is strictly controlled to make the finished ingredient particularly suited for use in fine old SWP House Paint.

A Close-Knit Film

It is this superior "quality" in SWP House Paint that produces its close-knit film—which hides the surface so much better—covers so much more surface per gallon—saves so much time and expense in application and lasts so much longer on the house. These are the only factors which can assure painting economy.

See "Paint Headquarters"

A nation-wide, impartial investigation has shown a 4 to 1 preference for money-saving SWP House Paint. Use SWP and you will be thoroughly satisfied. Come into "Paint Headquarters" and see for yourself how economically fine old SWP will serve your purpose.

RECEIVES LONG PRISON TERM IN POISONING

25 to 28 Years at Waupun for Man Who Tried to Kill and Rob

Oconomowoc (P)—After relating details of a brutal attempt to poison an elderly man for $200 and an automobile, George Fuller, 32, a former convict, was sentenced by Municipal Judge Newton W. Evans here Thursday to a term of from 25 to 28 years in the state prison at Waupun.

Fuller was charged with assault with intent to rob and murder. Charles Klein, 60, retired Milwaukee fireman, who lives alone on the shore of Pewaukee lake. He pleaded guilty but named Klein's son-in-law, Roy Blodgett, as the instigator for the plot through which he later hoped to take possession of Klein's property.

Warrants for Fuller and Blodgett were issued after the assault occurred last Feb. 15, but the conspirators escaped to Topshus, Wis., where they separated. Fuller was arrested at Racine Monday, a few hours after he returned to Wisconsin.

Fuller made a complete confession of his part of the crime. He told of purchasing poison in Racine and placing a bottle of poison liquor in Klein's home. At this point Klein, who has since recovered from the effects of poison and a severe beating administered by Fuller and Blodgett, took up the story of the attempt on his life.

Klein said he saw the bottle of liquor on his table but didn't touch it. Shortly afterward, he said, Fuller came to the house and told Klein he wanted to buy some land. In the course of the conversation Klein drank some of the liquor and began to feel ill.

Drank Milk As Antidote
Suspecting that he had been poisoned, Klein walked around in the house until he collapsed. He accused Fuller of poisoning him and the letter left the house after denying an intent to harm Klein. Klein then drank milk as an antidote and crawled into bed.

Later, Fuller returned, Klein continued, and attempted to force Klein to drink poison beer and milk. Failing in this, he began to beat Klein and forced him to hand over a wallet containing $35. Soon Blodgett arrived and the two men beat Klein senseless with their fists and a hand ax. When he regained consciousness Klein said he was lying on his bed Fuller and Blodgett were still in the house and warned him not to try to get away. Later, however, Klein said he heard an automobile drive away and crawled on his hands and knees to the home of a neighbor, who notified authorities.

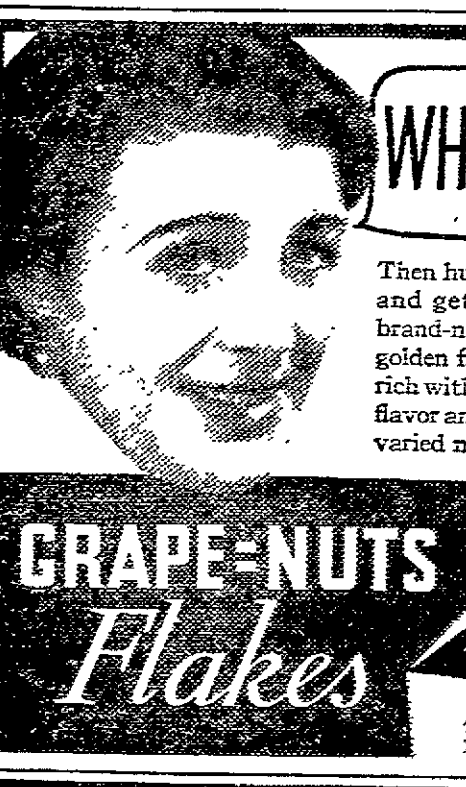

Fuller testified that he did not know Klein and when Blodgett suggested that he help in disposing of the old man, it seemed an easy way to get $200 and an automobile offered by Blodgett for the job. Plans to kill Klein, he said, were made in Racine where the conspirators chanced to meet.

"I know that would get me sooner or later so I wanted to come back and take the rap," Fuller said in explanation of his return to the state. On information given by Fuller, authorities are pressing a search for Blodgett in the southwest.

PLAN DINING ROOM IN CHURCH BASEMENT

Work on the transformation of the basement of First Reformed church into a dining room, hall and kitchen has been started, and the new quarters probably will be ready for occupancy within 10 days. A cement floor will be laid, and the entire basement decorated. Pat McCon has the general contract, and Alfred Wyro the plumbing contract. The improvements will cost about $1,000.

Knoxville, Tenn.—WANTED. 20 plasterers $4.00 a day, 100 carpenters at $7.50 a day, 5 mechanics at $7.50 a day, 25 steel workers at $7.50 a day. Don't get excited. That's just an old employment sign erected by John O'Connor, who used to be an employment agent during the presidential reign of Woodrow Wilson.

Highlights Of Crime That Shocked All Civilization

(By the Associated Press)

Chronological highlights in perhaps the most noted crime in American history follow:

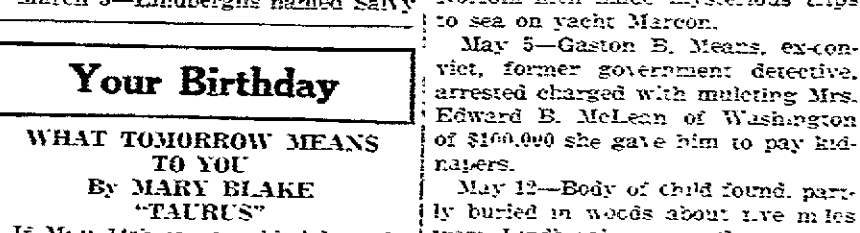

March 1, 1932—Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., curly-haired and 20 months old, was snatched from his crib at Hopewell. About 10 p. m., perhaps an hour after kidnapping, Betty Gow, nursemaid, found the crib empty and gave the alarm that started a world-wide hunt.

March 2—Mrs. Lindbergh appealed to the kidnapers to feed the baby a special diet. Col. Lindbergh expressed willingness to pay $50,000 ransom understood to be demanded in note left in nursery.

March 2—Lindberghs authorized radio appeal to kidnapers to meet negotiations, later pleading secrecy.

March 4—Henry (Red) Johnson, sailor sweetheart of Betty Gow, held for questioning. (Later released and deported.)

March 5—Lindberghs named Sally

Your Birthday
WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU
By MARY BLAKE "TAURUS"

If May 14th is your birthday, the next hours for you on this date are from 11:50 a. m. to 12:45 p. m., from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 10:15 p. m. to 11:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:40 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m.

May 14th, from astrological configurations, will be externally eventless and placid, but there will be several moves made on your checker-board of fate which will in the near future bring about some alterations and changes in your life. Revival of old associations, which will be all to the good.

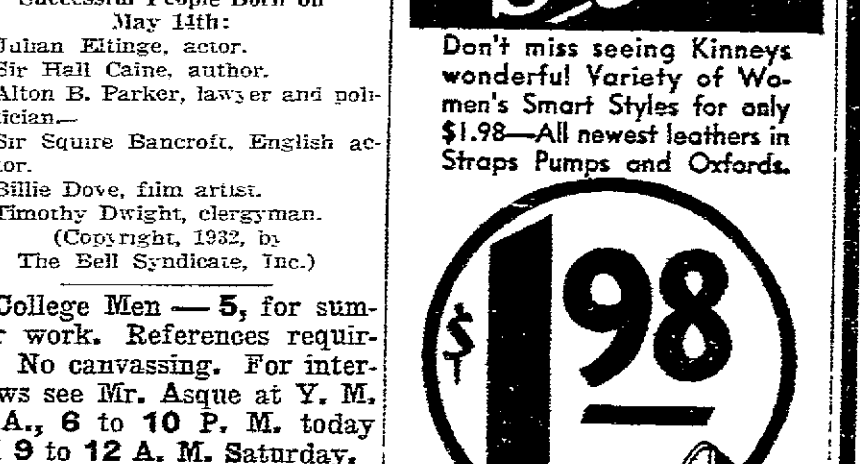

The child born on this May 14th may not show scholastic ability in his mastery of the 3 R's, but it will have decided passions and talents which should be fostered and cultivated. It will return love for love and hate for hate, and will be more sensitive than it outwardly appears to be.

Born on May 14th, patience is not one of your particular virtues, and you easily get fed up and desert your posts. Your own chronic boredom is the most boring quality which you possess, and one which others fear and resent. You are poor material out of which to wring enthusiasm or gladness. Your emotional indifference, however, is somewhat of a pose, as you have more feeling and love in your nature than you are able or willing to express. You are not a person with whom to take liberties, and you are on a familiar footing with but few. You are, however, an enigma in many respects to even your intimate or family associates.

You will never travel through life in any respect second or third class. If it can possibly be avoided, your tastes are extravagant, and nothing for you can take the place of comfort. You shy from the sordid of life and shut your eyes to many inevitable signs and contacts. There is one world to which you are friendly and at home—the book world. Many characters of history, fiction and newspaper renown are familiar figures in your mind. You do considerable dreaming and thinking, about which the world knows little. It does not occur to you that people are interested in your ideas or viewpoints. You are indifferent to most sports and games, but are fond of music and the theatre.

Successful People Born on May 14th:

2—Sir Hall Caine, author.
3—Alton B. Parker, lawyer and politician.

Appleton Lineup Changed For First Home Game Of Valley Season

COLLEGIANS TO MEET SHAWANO AT BRANDT PARK

Fence and Grand Stand Repaired; Mayor to Toss First Ball

BY GORDON R. MCINTYRE
WITH the home opening of the Fox River Valley Baseball league scheduled for Sunday afternoon at that ancient arena, Brandt park, Boss Leo Murphy of the Collegians has had his ball players and carpenters doing their very best whenever the opportunity has offered itself.

Not that there is any insinuation some of the ball players are carpenters or that there are carpenters acting as ball players. The season isn't far enough along just yet. But Brandt park annually needs a face lifting and that's where the carpenters come in. The wide open spaces in the fence that appear every spring have been duly boarded up and a few extra nails pounded here and there so that a good puff of wind of a fat man won't topple them over.

Repair Grandstand
In the grand stand there still are voids where wire fencing once held forth but Mr. Murphy has promised they'll be fixed up. He already has taken care of the run ways and put in a few boards so the fans won't break their ankles or necks for that six bits they lay down.

So much for the ball park. Change Lineup
Last Sunday afternoon the Collegians opened the season against Wisconsin Rapids at the Rapids and took a healthy 7 and 0 pasting for their troubles. As the score shows the boys didn't look like a bunch of champions with the stick and from reports their fielding was less than ordinary.

But a good Irishman doesn't like to lose and Mr. Murphy being good Irish has shuffled things up a bit and hopes to show a much better team Sunday afternoon, a team that should be able to pick the pill and stop the assaults of the enemy on Art "Lefty" Behr, who again will toil on the hill for the Collegians. At 1:30 p.m. the boys will be back in the outfield Sunday afternoon when the Shawano Indians come here, and if his trick knee doesn't kick up with the weather, he can be depended upon to do some tall hustling. His war club also will be a mighty handy addition to the club for if memory is correct Mr. Smith was the boss batsman of the league last year and totes a wrist watch to prove it.

A clasp by the name of Karben from over in Michigan somewhere is slated to perform at second base. He worked with the club Thursday evening and impressed with his ability to cavort around the infield. He didn't get a chance at bat but will be ready to show his stuff Sunday. A change in the batting order for Sunday also is hinted by Manager Murphy. Bowers probably will take the first position as lead off man and will be followed by Len Smith. Then Murphy will enter the picture to be followed by Sonny Tomow. Everyone on the club is hoping Tomow's war club is whooping it up for Sunday afternoon because on his ability to get extra bases rests a lot of the Collegian's hopes in the league race.

Mayor Tosses First Ball
Sunday's program will get started at the usual hour of 2:30 and His Honor Mayor John Goodland, Jr., will throw the first ball and someone will try to catch it. The boys will show their new suits and Jerry Kral will make his bow as Shawano manager.

Jerry is no stranger to Appleton and after Sunday's game is over he probably will look for Dutch Brautigam and some of the old timers around here and swap yarns about the good old days in the W. I. league. Kral worked for Green Bay in the olden days and caught many a ball game.

Just now he's a bit older, is getting bald and all this and that, but he's as enthusiastic as a kid and claims he's got a great ball team. Some of the old timer of last season has gone his way and there are many new faces on the club. Several are Indians, it is reported, and of course the club will be called the Indians.

Anyway, it looks like a big afternoon Sunday and as the fans can't go any place for so insignificant a sum as 50 and 25 cents perhaps they'll come out and see the season get started.

THISTLETHWAITE IS NAMED CARROLL ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

Will Be Head Football Coach; Takes Over New Duties Sept. 1

WAUKESHA (AP)—President William G. Ganfield of Carroll college announced today that Glenn Thistlethwaite, former head football coach at the University of Wisconsin, has been appointed athletic director and football coach at Carroll. Thistlethwaite will take up his duties Sept. 1.

Thistlethwaite succeeds to the post occupied by Vincent Batha, who will become assistant football coach and probably will have charge of basketball and track coaching. Batha became athletic director in 1921, when Carroll inaugurated a policy of "de-emphasis" of athletics. His football team failed to win a Big Four conference game.

Dr. Ganfield did not say that the appointment of a new coach indicated a change in policy, however. In announcing Thistlethwaite's appointment, he said:

"This does not mean any change in our present athletic policy. We shall continue the policy observed this year, of playing only a very limited schedule of intercollegiate games with colleges of our character and in our own area."

It does not mean an enlargement of our faculty in physical education and a further expansion of courses offered in this department."

Thistlethwaite's salary was not announced, but Dr. Ganfield said the regular faculty salary schedule would not be exceeded. Thistlethwaite was head football coach at the university for five years, resigning after the close of the 1931 season. Previously, he was engaged in a similar capacity at Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill.

PAROCHIAL TEAMS WIN LEAGUE GAMES

St. Mary Cops Third and Fourth Straight Battles This Week

St. Mary parochial school softball team won two games last week, the third and fourth straight wins. Tuesday at Wilson diamond the team beat Holy Name of Kimberly, 6 and 4. The St. Mary team scored six runs in the first inning and Holy Name is four in the second. The game was played in 35 minutes.

Thursday evening at Pierce park St. Mary won from the strong Holy Cross team of Kaukauna, coached by Rev. Alfred Schmitt, a former Appleton boy. The score was 4 and 2. The count was 4 and 0 until the first of the seventh because of the excellent pitching of Dan Heckel, star slasher for St. Mary. He weakened in that inning and Holy Cross scored twice.

Bauer and Kuchmeister starred for Holy Cross with two hits each and Heckel and Mortell looked good as the St. Mary battery. O'Brien, a newcomer at short, had a big day stopping everything that came his way.

Friday night St. Mary will travel to Kaukauna to meet St. Mary of that city.

ST. THERESE WINS

The St. Therese nine defeated Sacred Heart by a score of 3-2 recently. They also defeated St. Patrick's of Menasha, the score being 9-5. Thursday they left the team representing St. Mary's in the dust with a score of 13 and 7. Patrick Murphy, captain, catches for the team while Harold Doerfler does the hurling.

ST. JOE VS. ST. THERESE

St. Joseph grade school baseball team won another game the other evening when it defeated St. Patrick's of Menasha, 14 and 6. One home run was made by the winners, John Kettnerhofen getting the four ply swat. Members of the St. Joe team were John Kettnerhofen, catch, Eugene Klose, pitcher, James Rossmelss, first, Harold Delrow, second, George Klose, third, Edgar Verchoven, short, John Bertrman, right short, Joseph Rammer, left field, Leon Toomey, center, and Bobby Pilar, right field.

Friday night St. Joseph will play St. Therese at Roosevelt field.

WARNERS THEATRES WALLOP SPECIALS

Warner Theatre softball team opened the second round of play in the Older Boy league with a win over the Specials 20 and 12. The winners scored four runs in the first frame, none in the second, one in the third, seven in the fourth, five in the fifth, one in the sixth and two in the seventh.

The Specials counted runs in the sixth and seventh. Priebe, Crane and Huba worked for the winners. Arnold and Lamer for the losers. Other games are scheduled for tonight. Play during the first half the season saw the Bears win five games and lose none, Warners win three and lose two. Specials win two and lose two with one still to be played. Outcasts win two and lose three and Saphomores win none and lose four. The Sophs have been replaced by the Roosevelt team for the last round play.

STAGG UNVEILS HIS 1932 FOOTBALL TEAM

Chicago (AP)—Amos Alonzo Stagg's forty-first University of Chicago football team, expected to be the best maroon outfit since 1924, was being formally unveiled today. A game between the varsity and the maroon freshmen was scheduled for this afternoon. Admission receipts go to the American Olympic fund.

Lawrence Men Would Have Hard Time Without "Bill"

BY GORDON MCINTYRE
E'S just plain "Bill" to most of the boys he serves and he knows them by number better than name—does Bill Seger, custodian of the "cage" at new Alexander gymnasium of Lawrence college.

And if you should stop and talk with him any day this month he'll probably chuckle a bit and say this is his easiest season, one in which he doesn't have to keep track of a lot of equipment that college boys would like to make away with for their own.

In the spring, when the Vike athletes take to the track they don't wear much clothing or equipment

LAWRENCE SPORTS TEAMS SHOWING AT BELOIT TOMORROW

Track Squad Doped to Lose Again but May Furnish an Upset

LAWRENCE college track and field team, the golf team and tennis team, will invade Beloit this weekend for competition with Gold athletes. At 9:30 tomorrow morning the Vike golf squad of four men will take after par over the Beloit Country club course. Members of the team which so far has beaten Carroll and Ripon are Jim McKenney, Don Sawyer, C. Harwood, and Don Farris.

The afternoon will see Vike tennis players trying to win their third match from a Big Four school. Members of last week's squad were John Strange, Joe Negrescou, Chester Wiley, Kirby Tink, John Best, and Bill Tams. Doubles team are Strange and Negrescou, Wiley and Austin Stegath, Tink and Best.

Lawrence tracksters are doped to take another trimming when they compete against the Gold. However, the comparison is a paper one as result of Beloit's showing against Carroll last week when the Gold lost by a few points. Lawrence was badly defeated by the Pioneers. However, the Vikings may upset the dope bucket this week. Several days of fairly seasonable weather have given Coach Arthur C. Denney an opportunity to work hard with his protégés and he now has several who probably will come through with unexpected points.

Last Wednesday the Vikes competed against Oshkosh and Stevens Point Teachers and won. Coach Denney was more than pleased with the work of the boys and has hinted they'll cause Beloit trouble.

SEE RECORD CROWD AT GREEN BAY FOR NEXT PRO FIGHT

King Tut and Micky O'Neil, Will Show in Windup Attraction

GREEN BAY—With just a week remaining until Green Bay's second "big time" boxing program in as many months, it begins to appear that the fans from Wisconsin's northern counties will come to Green Bay again, as they did for the Gorilla Jones card. Mail order business is reported by the Green Bay Boxing association as very satisfactory and officials are planning on entertaining another big crowd.

The card, which will probably wind up professional boxing here for this season, not only brings an attractive windup with two top notchers, who have packed them in at other clubs, but it also matches four other pairs of sluggers, who can be counted upon for action.

In landing a match between King Tut and Mickey O'Neil, the local promoters believe they are bringing the fans a show decidedly metropolitan in quality and one which will give plenty of entertainment. Tut is quite widely recognized as the uncrowned welterweight champion. He is a terrific biter and has a smashing, tearing style of attack which has made him well liked by clubs, where the Dempsey type of milling is popular.

Tut tears in from the opening second and his tearing has ended many of his better match very early in the party. He has quick knockout victories over Billy Petrolle, Danny Kraemer, Babe Ruth, Sid Baraban, Babe Herman, Joe Kaufman, George Dolduc, Lupe Tenoro, Bobby LaSalle and Billy Wallace. He has decision wins over Mike Ballerino, Stanley Loyazo, Doc Snell, Ray Miller, Bruce Flowers, Tod Morgan and Jackie Fields.

His surprise win over Billy Petrolle at St. Paul, when he knocked the Fargo Express out of the picture in the first round, drew a $49,000 ticket sale. At Detroit he floored Jackie Fields, the title holder, several times and many experts declared that Fields saved his title only by weighing in overweight.

Jess Haines, Cardinals—Made first pitching start of year and beat Phillies, 8-2, scattering nine hits. Ed Brandt, Braves—Halted Cubs, 5-3, with five hits. Dick Porter, Indians—His ninth inning double drove in winning run against Red Sox. Babe Phelps, Dodgers—Held Reds to six hits after first inning and beat them, 5-2; drove in deciding run in fifth.

Milk-Kloehn Hurler Whiffs 15 Batters but Walks Eight Others

Scoring their runs in the early innings the Chair-Interlake team of the American league beat the Outagamie-Kloehn club 10 and 4 at Roosevelt diamond last night. The winners took an early lead with two runs in the second inning, two in the third and three in the fourth and then coasted along to victory. The Chairs coined four hits and had four errors. The Outagamie-Kloehns got three hits but erred six times. Van Wyck, toiling for the Mikes, struck out 15 batters and walk of eight men. Old Russ LeRoux was on the mound for the Chair-Interlake and struck out two and issued three walks.

BOSTON BRAVES WALLOP BRUINS; BROOKLYN WINS

Jess Haines Makes First Start for Cards and Beats Phillies

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

BILL McKenney's Boston Braves may not win the National league flag this year, but they promise to establish a lasting record for demoralizing the opposition.

In 22 games the battling Bostonians have been helped along by 45 opponents' errors.

The Giants have suffered most from the jinx. In six engagements with the Braves they committed 17 bobbles, eight in one afternoon and five games. Brooklyn made 10 in five games. Philadelphia seven in five.

Now come the league leading Chicago Cubs with a threat to surpass anything previously done. Facing Boston for the first time yesterday, they managed to compile seven errors, more than sufficient to give the Braves an 8 to 3 victory behind Ed Brandt.

The Cubs' young infielders, Bill Herman and Bill Jurgens, divided most of the hard luck between them. Herman with four bobbles and Jurgens with two.

Brandt had the Cubs baffled until the last of the ninth, when Johnny Moore nicked him for a home run with two on. The loss cut Chicago's lead over the Braves to two games.

The Brooklyn Dodgers won first blood in their long-awaited series with Cincinnati, 5 to 2, as Babe Phelps hurled scoreless ball after the first inning. Joe Stripp and Tony Cucinello, former Reds, played a big part in the victory.

Jess Haines made his initial start of the year for the St. Louis Cardinals and beat the Phillies, 8 to 2. The Cards knocked Jim Elliott from the hill in the second and plastered his three successors.

The Giants' opener at Pittsburgh was rained out, and only one American league engagement escaped the elements. Cleveland nosed out the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 4, when Dick Porter's double scored Cissell after two were out in the ninth. Earl Webb lost the ball in the sun.

CUBS SEND HURLER TO NEWARK CLUB

Chicago (AP)—Johnny Welch, young right-handed pitcher, today was on his way to join the Newark Bears of the International league having been released by the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs sent Welch to Los Angeles on option, but Commissioner Landis decided the Cubs had sent him out on option often enough and ordered him returned.

BREWERS WIN AND LOSE TO TOLEDO HENS

Jack Knott Defeated First Time in Six Starts; Score 5 and 2

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—That intercity rivalry between Minneapolis and St. Paul, which in the past has coaxed out the fans when nothing else would, was due for its first 1932 test today.

The Millers, tied with Kansas City for second place, were scheduled to open at St. Paul, winner of the American association championship last year, but today in last place. Regardless of the comparative positions of the clubs, the intercity series has been a money-maker, and the Saint and Miller club-owners were hoping that this year would be no exception.

A return to 25-cent baseball was voted at a special meeting of the league yesterday in an effort to stimulate attendance. Effective June 1, 25-cent bleacher seats will be offered. In addition, women and boys under 12 years, will be admitted for "two-bits" every day except Sundays and holidays.

Blues At Milwaukee
Along with the St. Paul-Minneapolis opening, Kansas City was at Milwaukee today. Indianapolis will open at Louisville tomorrow, with Toledo at Columbus.

Indianapolis increased its league lead yesterday by defeating Minneapolis, 10 to 5, while Kansas City was taking a 6 to 3 beating from Columbus. With Frank Sigafos and Curtis Walker blasting out two home runs apiece, the Indians thumped Jimmy Brillheart and Rosy Ryan for 13 hits. The Millers made 13 off Campbell and Heving, but failed to get anything like as much damage or concentration.

After losing the first game of a doubleheader to Toledo, 5 to 2, Milwaukee won the second in a 1 to 0 pitching battle. The Mud Hens handed Jack Knott his first defeat in six starts while Ashley Hillen and Pip Koehler collaborated for Milwaukee to win the second. Hillen kept five hits far apart, and Koehler lashed out a homer for the only run of the game. Craghead and Rabb gave the Brewers only four hits.

Paul Dean Yanked
Columbus used four hits and a pair of Kansas City errors to score five runs in the third and finished with a 6 to 3 victory. Paul Dean was yanked after wobbling in the fourth and Carmen Hill finished and received credit for the victory.

St. Paul won its first series of the season by defeating Louisville, 9 to 8, in ten innings. Marcum and Weiss got homers for the Colonels, but the Saints hit often and long enough to make it three out of four.

ASSOCIATION CUTS BLEACHER PRICES
Also Announces Reduced Scale for Women and Boys During Week
Chicago (AP)—If admission prices have been keeping trade away from baseball games, especially in the "big minors," the situation should soon improve for "two-bit" bleacher seats are coming back in the American association and probably will come back to the Pacific coast league.

Harassed by unsuitable weather which has piled up 30 doubleheaders during the first month of the season, American association club owners yesterday voted to install some 25-cent bleacher seats and to admit women and boys under 12 years for 25 cents every day except Sundays and holidays to coax a paying amount of patronage through the gates.

In a formal statement the club owners blamed the weather for all of their attendance troubles, but crowds have been so far off for good days and good attractions, that it was deemed wise to make a radical cut in the minimum admission charge, which in the past 15 years, has been 50 cents.

Kansas City, Minneapolis and Indianapolis, with teams up in the running, have done fairly well, but Milwaukee, rated one of the best baseball cities in the country, not so well.

ERNIE SCHAAF PICKED TO BEAT JACK GROSS
New York (AP)—Ernie SchAAF, Boston heavyweight, rules a 3 to 1 favorite over Jack Gross of Philadelphia for their ten round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight.

SchAAF, regarded in some quarters as the third best heavyweight in the business, figures to outclass Gross but the Philadelphia's southpaw style may give Ernie trouble. He never before has been called upon to meet a left-hander.

In ten round preliminaries, King Tut, Milwaukee couter, meets Morris Sherman of Detroit, and Joey Ferrando, Ashtabula, O. lightweight, faces Paul Junior of Boston.

"Y" SWIMMING TEAM TO COMPETE AT BAY
Appleton Y. M. C. A. will send a swimming team to Green Bay Friday evening for a meet with the "Y" team at that city. Nine members of the Appleton squad under direction of George Klein will make the trip. They are Hally Hauert, Ed Dobberstein, Eugene Mullen, Joe Cannon, Walter Klein, Waldemar Klein, Ed Goodrich, Al Woehler, and Les Crabbe.

The men will compete in a 160 yard relay race, 40 yard breast, back and free style, 100 yard free style race, fancy diving, and a medley relay race of 40 yard back strokes, breast stroke and free style.

Schmeling Revealing A Warm Personality

BY WILBUR WOOD
Copyright 1932

NEW YORK (CPA)—Though Max Schmeling is a bulky type in the ring, pursuing his objective grimly and with a characteristically Teutonic thoroughness, he is anything but stolid and colorless outside the ropes. He seems to have a natural flare for showmanship.

For one reason or another Manager Joe Jacobs has guarded the champion from much contact with the public. Jack Keenan used to do the same thing with Dempsey. It was not until after the two Jacks had parted company that Dempsey's marvelous personality made itself felt. The old Manassa mauler always possessed the faculty of making friends easily, but not until he went on his own did his personality have a chance to make itself felt on the public at large. Once he went to work to make friends with the public he soon became one of the greatest idols the ring has produced.

Should be Given Chance
Though Schmeling may not be a second Dempsey inside the ring, he is much like the Manassa mauler outside it, with a warm personality that only needs to be allowed a chance to make him a host of friends.

The champion escaped the safeguards thrown around him by Jacobs for a time recently when he went over to Long Island City to inspect the new garden bowl, where he will box Jack Sharkey on June 21. When the party arrived perhaps 2,000 persons had congregated. They pressed tightly around an old ring, set up in the center of the bowl, while Schmeling, Jacobs, Jimmy Johnston and others posed and talked for the movies.

It was a friendly crowd. The champion got one good laugh out of the gathering. Johnston had explained to him how Sharkey, on an earlier visit to the bowl, had pointed to the spot where Schmeling would be flat on the canvas after being hit on the chin.

"What have you to say about that, Max?" Johnston asked. "Sharkey" replied the champion. "What do you think will happen?" Johnston persisted. "These people would like to know." "Come Here June 21" "If they come here June 21 they will find out," was the answer. After the talkies were finished, with Johnston doing most of the talking, as usual, a two-year-old baby girl was handed to Max from the crowd to help out in posing for some still shots. The little girl didn't care for the idea, crying loudly for mama. A second candidate was handed up and also didn't like it. By this time kids of both sexes were climbing into the ring from all sides, and Maxie finally finished up with two non-weepers, one on each arm.

But that wasn't all. Dozens of others insisted on shaking the champion's hand and when he finally escaped from the ring the whole crowd swarmed about him from one end of the bowl to the other. Max seemed to like it. At least he shook hands with probably five hundred children and adults before leaving the bowl and he had a smile for every one. Many a kid got a real thrill out of it. Maybe all that doesn't mean anything, but that is the sort of thing that makes a fighter popular.

POND ALL STARS TO PLAY KAUKAUNA
Pond All Star softball team will play another game here Sunday morning when it tackles a Kaukauna team on Roosevelt junior high school diamond. The Stars are the pick of softball talent in the city and aspire to win state and sectional honors.

They have played several games to date and won all of them. Last Sunday they downed the Kaukauna All Stars by a count of 18 and 4. Three members of the club scored three runs each.

The team will be strengthened for Sunday's game by the addition of Bill Peotter, first sacker, to the lineup.

BOSTON BRAVES FORCED TO PLAY 4 OVERTIME GAMES

Two Thirteen Inning Contests Reported by National League Clubs

BY JOHN B. FOSTER
Copyright 1932

New York (CPA)—The Boston Braves, still clinging tenaciously to a first division berth, have played in more extra inning games this year than any other major league team. Four of their games have gone past the regulation nine innings.

The Pennsylvania clubs of the National league, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, have each played in three overtime games. St. Louis Brooklyn and Cincinnati have had two each and Chicago and New York one each.

There have been nine extra inning games in the National league to date. It is not a large number, yet it indicates pertinacious baseball and equality of strength. A team that can carry a game into extra innings generally has fight in it. Occasionally teams get opportunity to win or lose because of palpable blunders of the opposition, but more often extra inning games are the results of dogged resistance.

Twice the National league has recorded a 13-inning contest. One was between New York and Boston. In addition, Boston has played in three 12-inning contests. Until it had its underpinning knocked to one side by Cincinnati, Boston was leading the National league partly because it hung on by its teeth in extra inning work.

In the American league the season began with a 10-inning game between Washington and Boston, on the Washington ground, which was won by the Senators. American league teams have engaged in ten extra inning games to date, thus keeping pace with the National league.

Cleveland has played in one overtime game and New York in none. Be it also noted that the Yankees have been making more runs than any other team in the American league except Cleveland. That shows something of the slugging power of both teams. Without playing extra inning contests, they can still lead their rivals in total runs.

LEGION JUNIORS TO PLAY COLLEGE TEAM
Legion junior baseball players will stage their first game of the season Sunday afternoon at Interstate park. The youngsters will play a Lawrence college team.

Practice sessions for the future greats have been held regularly some drills bringing out as many as 50 boys of all ages and all degrees of ability. A schedule of games between members of the squad soon will be started and the post team for inter-post competition will be picked within the next month.

The boys will practice Saturday afternoon at Brandt park, according to H. W. Miller, who is directing the sport.

Billy Martin, a nephew of Pepper Martin, is a track and field star at an Oklahoma City grade school.

Joe Dawson, Kansas City Blue hurler, spent two years out of baseball in the aviation game.

The Virginia baseball team has made its best record this year since 1924.

Joe Muench To Manage Kimberly

Kimberly—Joe Muench, Menasha baseball veteran and a member of the Kimberly team for the past two seasons, again will take over managerial duties. He was offered and accepted management of the Paper-makers yesterday following resignation of Carl Lemmers as manager earlier in the week. Lemmers resigned after differences with the association operating the club.

Muench will give the Paper-makers a manager equal to any in the league. He stated he will use practically the same material he now has on contract. He also served notice that he would go to the extreme to put Kimberly up among the leaders this year. Muench is known in the valley for his work with local boys who are a little green at the game and should be just the thing for some of the Paper-makers rookies.

SPEARS OPPOSED TO HEAVY GRID ARMOR

Oshkosh (AP)—Heavy armor for football players is opposed by Dr. Clarence W. Spears, Badger football coach, who was here yesterday.

"It's like Sir Lancelot and the knights of old," he said. "Give a knight armor and a lance and he would fight. Take the armor away and let him run into another man and he would soon say, 'this is a dumb game.' The same is true of football. A player learns fitness and how to accomplish his purpose without injury if he is not heavily armored."

Spears suggested removing the hard armor of the football outfit and substituting felt pads.

INSURANCE LAW MAY BE EFFECTED IN 1933

Milwaukee (AP)—The unemployment insurance law, which under present arrangements will go into effect on July 1, 1933 unless employers of the state adopt voluntary plans, will have a disastrous effect on employment in the state, it was predicted by Attorney Robert S. Roar, member of the legislative committee of the Association of Commerce, in an address to the Lions club.

"The law is aptly named—it will insure plenty of unemployment," Roar said.

Before the statute goes into effect employers, to protect themselves, will cut the number of workers to

STILL EIGHT LEFT

Denver, Col.—A cat was struck by an automobile at 14th and Broadway. The Police received a call to go and shoot the feline and put it out of its misery. Policemen McCasland and Thompson arrived at the scene of the accident to find the cat gone. Having lost one of its nine lives, it apparently took possession of an other and calmly went about its business of serenading on backyard fences.

IRON RATIONS

London—The British army is now being issued an "iron ration," so all the soldiers should develop into iron men. The iron is contained in a hard cake, consisting of cocoa, sugar, pea-powder, beef-powder, oil of lemon, and cocoa-butter. ## NEW DISCOVERIES CONFIRM VIRTUES OF BRAN IN DIET

Supplies "Bulk" and Vitamin B for Constipation; Also Iron for Blood

For ten years, now, millions have found Kellogg's ALL-BRAN a safe, pleasant way to overcome common constipation—with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so often result from this condition.

Recent laboratory tests show that ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. In addition, ALL-BRAN contains twice as much blood-building iron, by weight, as beef liver.

This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like the "bulk" in lettuce. Inside the body, it absorbs moisture and forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

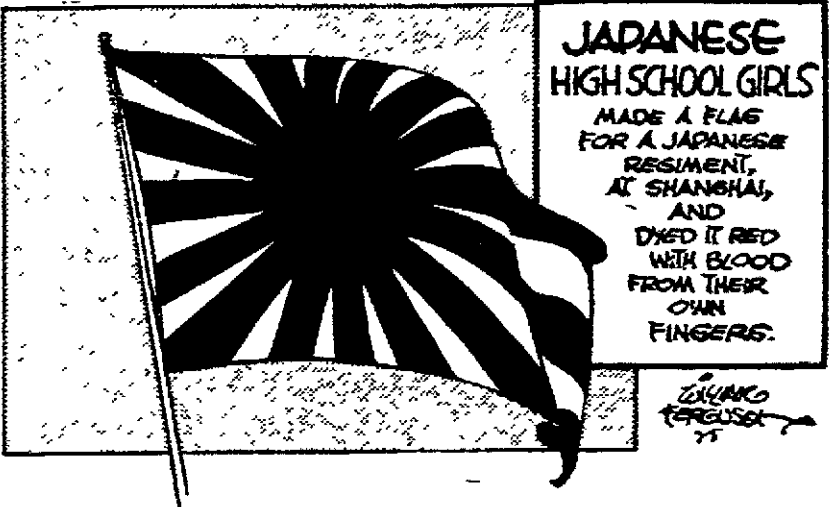

Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. It is not habit-forming.

Think how much better it is to enjoy this delicious cereal than to take endless pills and drugs, which often lead to harmful habits.

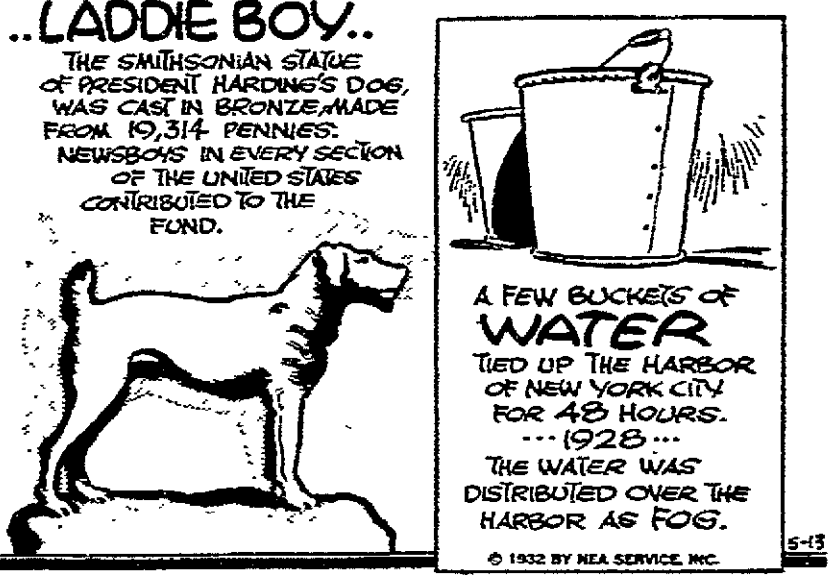

Two tablespoonsfuls daily—in serious cases with every meal—are usually sufficient. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CANCER IS MAJOR DISEASE IN STATE

Held Second Place Among Causes of Death in Wisconsin Last Year

Madison—(AP)—Cancer retained its hold on second place among the leading causes of death in Wisconsin last year, taking a toll of 3,495 lives and ranking below only the combined group of heart diseases in point of high mortality, the state board of health reported today.

Last year's cancer toll exceeded that of 1931 by 124 deaths. Cancer has marked an annual increase each year, with the exception of four years, since 1910 when 1,522 cancer deaths were reported. The disease must be fought in the same intensive manner that has spelled the steady conquest of tuberculosis, Dr. C. A. Harper said in commenting on the cancer figures.

Since 1910 more than 50,000 persons in Wisconsin have succumbed to cancer which attacks persons of all ages but particularly those in the upper age groups. Because of its insidious attack, cancer affecting the interior organs of the body advances beyond recovery in many cases before it is discovered, the board said. Periodic examinations were recommended.

The board warned of the innumerable cancer "cures" which are advertised by quacks, pointing out that surgery, X-ray and radium by cancer specialists are the only means which have succeeded in checking or conquering the disease. Surgery must be aided by early diagnosis of the case, the board said, adding that prevention can be practiced against cancer through simple living and thorough personal hygiene.

William Frame, who died recently at Aberdare, Wales, had been organizer of the Primitive Methodist Church for 65 years.

Tells Club Members About Operation of Adams Farm School

Special to Post-Crescent
Chilton — J. H. McAfee, financial secretary and director of the Adams Farm school at Winneconne, addressed members of the Kiwanis club Tuesday evening. Mr. McAfee gave a history of the origin and development of the Adams school during its three years of operation. This school uses the college plan of housing the boys and girls. They are taught how and required to do all the housework necessary in the plan of the school he said. The boys bake excellent bread, and are made familiar with all phases of good housekeeping, he declared. All the vegetables needed are grown by the children, and the school is supported by the products of the farm, and the gifts and contributions.

The children attend the public schools of Winneconne, the tuition being charged back to the counties from which they come. Mr. McAfee had more than 20 years of experience in Y. M. C. A. work before taking over the school. During the past year 5,000 persons visited the Adams Farm home and the Wisconsin State Board of control gave it a high rating in its field of service, he said.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON
QUICK ROAD TO FAME

A professor of psychology and a writer of advertising copy have pooled their talents to produce "Making the Most of Your Time," a volume intended to show those in the humbler walks of life how to rise to fame and fortune. The authors, John J. B. Morgan and Ewing T. Webb, have to their credit a previous book, "Strategy in Handling People," which attained the rank of best seller.

Chiefly, this 245-page volume consists of little sermons detailing the favorite parables of the hard work and perseverance by which America's financial leaders attained their wealth. It is the thesis of Professor Morgan and Advertiser Webb that life is a game and that to win one must play enthusiastically. Specifically there are chapters on "Seizing Your Opportunities," "Outwitting Your Handicaps," "How to Concentrate," "Developing the Habit of Success" and "Getting Over Self-Consciousness."

Those who object to the recent tendency of biographers to paint the faults as well as virtues of celebrities, attributing human frailties to the great, will find "Making the Most of Your Time" precisely to their taste. Here are collected anecdotes and quotations to show that courage and a determination to "play the game" brought Andrew Carnegie his millions, Theodore Roosevelt the presidency, made Thomas A. Edison the financial wizard and Charles

M. Schwab a giant of the steel industry.

Professor Morgan received a Ph. D. from Columbia University in 1916, served as captain during the war and was in charge of psychological tests of soldiers at Camp Hancock. Ewing T. Webb, Yale '13, is said to have directed national advertising campaigns to the extent of $20,000,000.

There is not so much as a hint of the newer psychology in this book. The tone is that of an employer's "p.d. talk." For those who find stimulation in such exhortations it is recommended.

"Making the Most of Your Time" is published by Ray Long and Richard R. Smith and sells for $2.50.

CLOSED DEER HUNTING SEASON IN CLARK CO.

Neillsville —(P)—The Clark county board has forwarded to the state conservation commission a resolution asking that something be done about a mistake made in the clerical department of the legislature. Although the legislature voted a closed season on deer in Clark county this year, it was erroneously listed among counties in which deer hunting will be legal. Sportsmen maintain that the county's cut-over lands are ideal hunting grounds but that the deer have been unprotected for many years and would easily be slaughtered and wiped out.

10 NEW FIRE TOWERS COMPLETED IN STATE

Madison —(P)—Ten of the 33 new fire towers in the conservation department's 1932 program have been completed, Paul D. Kelleter, director, announced today.

Twenty-one of the new towers will be in new locations while 12 will replace old towers. The towers constructed during March and April are of new and improved design, combining the best features of state and federal towers already in use, with many new developments, Mr. Kelleter said.

The towers already completed are: Wilson, Twin Mounds and Norway

Ridge, all in district 10; Sand Island, Quincy and Camp Douglas in district 11; Cham Lake in district 7; Grantburg in district 2; Summit (Chaffey) in district 1 and Hol-pock (Bowler) in district 9.

All towers in the central area were ready for use during the spring fire season as were some towers in the northwestern area.

CHAPTER 12 IN THE PAPERS

"O H, I gave him our names of course!" Carelessly Georgie led the way out into the hall and Jenny could not see her face; but she thought there was a suspicion of hurry in her voice as she chattered on. "I phoned Rochester Gate, too, but the Old Man hasn't wanted me; I said I'd be back by four. We can just do it. I've got a taxi waiting."

"A taxi waiting?" Jenny was at a loss. "But we—we can't leave Eddie." "Of course we can't." "Without even asking how he is—how much he is hurt?" "You goose!" Georgie's gloved fingers flicked against her cheek. "I've been upstairs, talking to the head nurse and the doctor. While you went on sitting obediently while they'd put you—I made all arrangements. It doesn't pay to wait till people remember you, you know—you do better to be a bit of a nuisance sometimes."

"But how is Eddie?" "Full of cuts and bruises and a bit dazed—oh yes, quite conscious, very much alive; excited, in fact." Guiding Jenny into the waiting taxi, Georgie gestured softly. "Was that you and a restful you can't accept for this evening but that as it is obviously going to be a very fine Sunday tomorrow you will come picnicking with me anywhere in the country, if I call for you punctually at ten. . . . That's what you meant, isn't it?"

She shook her head. The tears were rising in her throat. "No, she would not go. Why did I ask her? Because he had been so badly hurt by Georgie that couldn't face a day alone. Why else?" "No use for me at all, Jenny Revell!"

She was silent; and it was as though all the street became silent with her. The newsboy had darted away round a corner and the noise of the traffic lulled and dropped; a radio was suddenly switched off in nearby house. It was as though someone had said to the world—"Hush! Listen! Listen to Jenny Revell, who is going to say 'no'."

She looked up into Garth Aveney's eyes and saw the color of their decision and darken. She heard him draw an uneven breath. "At ten, then," he said softly. "And now I'll take you back to your apartment. D'you mind if I just drop you there and go straight along? I'm supposed to be dining with my uncle at eight and I see it's a quarter past already. And anyway—I don't want to have to talk to your cousin tonight."

Well, Georgie wouldn't have wanted him to talk to her tonight! Or tomorrow either or for the next ten days, when Eddie would hold all her thoughts. But one couldn't explain that, it would be unkind. Besides—Jenny put a hand to her head—it would be giving away the secret. She said timidly—

"Have you time to drive me to my hotel? It's just round this corner. I'm staying there; I'm not at the apartment now."

"Is that where I call for you tomorrow morning?" "Please."

Georgie nodded. He seemed absorbed now in the rhythm of his engine, indifferent to her presence. Miserable, at war with herself, she stared down at her hands clasped upon the papers. One thumb partly obscured a column.

"Mr. Eddie Townsend who was at the wheel when his car came into collision with a bus— (Jenny moved her thumb and read on.)"—had just left City Hall after his marriage to Miss Georgina Revell. Mrs. Townsend, who was sitting in the back of the car, was quite unhurt and accompanied her husband to the hospital where—

The car slid into speed. Jenny could read no more.

COP NEEDS WATCHDOG

Boston, Mass.—That "poodle dog" before "Harrison" now realizes. After repeated boasts of his immunity from automobile thieves, Harrison, assigned to special duty at a meeting hall, parked his car where he could keep a constant eye on it from a window. Leaving the hall at the end of the meeting, he found his car gone. His consternation amidst his fellow officers, who wanted to know if he had looked out of the wrong window, or watched the wrong car.

FIRST NEWS OF FINDING BODY FROM GOVERNOR

New Jersey Executive Gives First Official Information on Murder

By The Associated Press

"I have sad news for you. The Lindbergh baby has been found dead."

In these words Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey, told an Associated Press reporter the first news of the tragic ending of the Lindbergh baby hunt.

Hours later the official police announcement was made at the Lindbergh estate by Col. Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey State police. Later Col. Schwarzkopf issued additional statements, definitely identifying the body as that of the missing infant and announcing that a group of persons was under suspicion.

Following are the official announcements:

The first bulletin: "We have to announce apparently the body of the Lindbergh baby was found at 3:15 p. m. (Thursday) William Allen, a Negro, was riding from Mount Rose, N. J., to Hopewell with Orville Wilson on a truckload of timber. They stopped the truck near a woods. He, Allen, went into the woods on the Mount Rose hill in Mount Rose, N. J., and under a bush he lowered his head and as he raised a branch he saw a skeleton on the ground, and a person's foot. He called back to Mr. Wilson. Mr. Wilson ran into the woods, saw what it was and decided to go to Hopewell to get police. They notified Chief Wolf of the Hopewell police, who notified these headquarters. In response to the Newark police, Sergeant Moffatt of the Newark police, Lieutenant Keaton of the New Jersey State police and a number of other detectives immediately went to the scene.

Report Finding Body

"They reported finding the body of a child estimated to be between 1 1/2 and 2 years old in a bad state of decomposition, having blonde hair and wearing what appeared to be an undershirt and a flannel band around the body.

"Not satisfied with this identification the men sent back to Hopewell to the Lindbergh estate to get samples of the undershirt the baby wore and of the flannel shirt the baby had on the night of the kidnapping (March 1) This flannel shirt had an embroidered collar on it. These articles were taken back to the scene and were compared with the clothing found on the body and were matched closely enough to afford an identification of the body as that of the Lindbergh baby.

"The statement of William Allen and Orville Wilson says that the body was pretty well concealed by leaves, dirt and brush.

"The skull had a hole in it about the size of a 25-cent piece above the forehead. There apparently had been an attempt to bury the body face downward. It was in a bad state of decomposition. Mercer co. coroner and the county physician were immediately called. The physician is Dr. Charles H. Mitchell. The coroner is Walter Swazey, both of Trenton.

"The body was found about 75 yards off road in woods."

The second bulletin:

Old Obstacles Removed

"As long as there was a possibility of the baby being alive, the police have been acting with a certain amount of suppressed activity in order not to interfere with any negotiations that might result in the safe return of the baby.

"Now that the body of the baby has been found, any possible effort will be used and all men necessary will immediately exercise every possible effort to accomplish the arrest of the kidnapers and murderers. We have had under suspicion a group of persons suspected of being the kidnapers and immediate steps will be taken and are being taken to accomplish their arrest.

"Emergency telephone lines for this case are being set on the ground where they were placed by telephone men within 75 feet of where the body was found.

The third bulletin:

"A preliminary telephone report from the county physician indicates that a number of positively identifying characteristics have been discovered in the body found today which would identify it as being the body of the Lindbergh baby. 'Betty Gov.' (the baby's nursemaid) has positively identified the garments found on the body discovered today as being the garments in which the Lindbergh baby was clothed on the night of the kidnapping. The sleeping suit was not on the baby but the two shirts on the body have been positively identified by Betty Gov. Tomorrow, Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were at the Hopewell home when it became known that the baby found today was the Lindbergh baby.

"Colonel Lindbergh was immediately communicated with and is on his way to Hopewell now.

The body was found on the left (southwest) side of the road going from Mount Rose to Hopewell. More than 20 additional troopers were immediately ordered to duty upon the discovery of the facts which have come to life today. Additional men are being detailed also.

"Information concerning the gang referred to is now being checked and such parts of this as will not interfere with the apprehension of the same will be revealed in a later bulletin."

The fourth bulletin of the night told of the identification of the body by Betty Gov. The Lindbergh nurse of the investigations at the scene of the crime and of the imminent questioning of two men who have figured prominently in the case. It was announced that the next bulletin would be issued at 10 a. m. today.

Chicago—A fashion note: "The Helen Willis bob" seems to be going over with a bang. The bob the tennis star recently affected was among the hair coiffures displayed by models competing for the most perfect summer bob for 1932, a contest being sponsored by the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers association.

All Details Missing In 1st Reports Of Baby's Death

By MORRIS WATSON

Hopewell, N. J.—First, Hopewell heard that the baby was found dead—just that.

It was relief, not what the neighbors of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh hoped, but end to an awful ordeal.

It must have been half the town that gathered at Gebhart's hotel and lunchroom and stood around or sat at oil-clothed coffee tables and asked each other "what have you heard?" There were groups outside on the lighted corner, too, impervious to a drizzling rain.

Rumors of the ugly truth came in a filtering way. That the baby's body had been found was the first. That he had been dead for weeks, perhaps since the night of the kidnapping two and a half months ago. That there was left to identify only a skeleton and clothing.

—Hopewell was stunned.

"Charley" Williamson, of the two-man police force, walked in, gun swinging at his side.

"Charley" called his townsmen. He kept at his task, however, it was, and only acknowledged the calling of his name with a hasty wave of the hand.

He was button-holed finally.

"Charley" implored a particular friend, "for heaven's sake tell us what happened."

"They found him," said the officer.

"We know. But how? The body?"

The policeman shook his head.

"Pretty bad," he said. Then he walked on.

Hopewell just listened for a time after that. Rumor grew into fact, shocking fact. "Official autopsy—murdered" . . . "Dead for weeks" . . . "Dead even before ransom was paid" . . . "Dead even before ransom was demanded."

Pent-up opinion burst with sudden ferocity. Everybody tried to talk at once. Those outside waved their hands in the rain, now almost a downpour.

"If I," said a man who must have been 70, "could lay my hands on—" he choked, but there was no doubt of the ending of the sentence.

A young mother—maybe she was 30 and a mother left the lighted gathering place in haste. She was crying.

Down the road a piece, towards Princeton, there was great excitement because somebody pointed out a spot in the bushes where, it was said, the body was found. Automobiles were lined up a half mile each side of the road. A huge semi-circle of humanity surveyed the spot, which probably was not the place where the men and women shook their heads and asked unanswerable questions.

FATHER OFTEN NEAR BODY OF HIS CHILD

Col. Lindbergh Frequently Traveled Over Road in Futile Quest

Hopewell, N. J.—(AP)—From Mount Rose, near where the Lindbergh child was found slain, one can gaze over wild woods in which foxes prowl and see the white Sourland estate of the flier, about five miles away.

The thicket near the roadside, where the tiny body was tossed by murderers, never was touched by the widespread search, in which hundreds of state troopers beat the brush about Hopewell and the Lindbergh estate. Apparently the isolated spot was considered too far way to yield any clue.

Mount Rose, a hamlet of a dozen houses clustering about a general store, is about a mile and a half from Hopewell on the road to Princeton. When his mountain estate was under construction, Col. Lindbergh lived in a Mount Rose house for a time.

Coming from the Lindbergh home, the kidnapers could have fled along a dirt road leading from the house across a paved highway running through Hopewell. The road then leads to Mount Rose. There they could have branched on to an improved highway and sped to Princeton, about seven miles away.

The body was found a short distance from the Princeton road, and between Mount Rose and Hopewell. This led authorities to believe the child was carried through Hopewell by his abductors.

Col. Lindbergh drove over the road frequently in his journey during the hunt for the child. Each time he traveled it he passed within a few feet of his son's body without knowing it.

FRUIT DEALER HERE CLAIMS BANKRUPTCY

The petition in bankruptcy of Morris Aaron, Appleton fruit dealer, filed in court at Milwaukee, has been referred to Charles H. Forward, referee in bankruptcy at Oshkosh, for administration.

Liabilities of $8,576.72, including taxes of $4.50; secured claims of $2,944 and unsecured claims of $2,011.73. Assets include household goods worth $200; an automobile worth $50; three coats; $50; shelving; $8; and property in reversion, $50. Exemption is claimed for property to the value of $200.

NEGRO ASKS BETTER JOB AFTER FINDING MISSING BABY'S BODY

Hopewell, N. J.—(AP)—William Allen, quiet-spoken Negro who found the Lindbergh baby's body, doesn't care so much about a cash reward, but he would like a better job than helper on a truck.

"I feel I'm entitled to some money," he said. "But if Col. Lindbergh has none but can find me a job, I'll be satisfied. I just hope the police catch the man who killed the baby. He must be a devil."

500 ORPHANS PRAY WITHOUT AVOID FOR SAFETY OF CHILD

Mount Rose, N. J.—(AP)—The land where the Lindbergh baby's body was found is owned by St. Michael's orphanage of Hopewell.

The 500 children of the orphanage had been praying daily that the child might be left unharmed at the doors of their institution. Every morning they would look on the steps to see if the child was there.

Huge Cost In Search For Lindy Child

Hopewell, N. J.—(AP)—The cash cost of the crime of the century is almost as hard to reckon as the more grievous pain paid in suffering and sorrow.

But one thing is certain: The figure mounted high into six digits, possibly higher.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh lost $50,000 in a futile ransom payment. Mrs. Edward B. McLean of Washington paid out $100,000 in an attempt at ransom and charged that her agent, Gaston B. Means, mislaid her of it.

Those are the two definite figures that can be set. How to total the cost of a world-wide hunt in which hundreds of thousands of policemen and countless individuals took parts of varying importance?

Yachts are expensive to operate and European trips are not taken at small cost. The Norfolk intermediaries have been using a yacht in their negotiation attempts. Their expenses, and those of Salvy Spitalo, Irving Blitz, Morris Rosner and others who tried to get the baby back must have been high.

The New Jersey state police sent an official to Europe to run down clues. Spending thousands of dollars in the search the police faced depleted funds and had to ask additional appropriation.

Naval planes and coast guard boats took part in the search, the government spent money, assigning agents to the hunt and sending broadcast a long list of the ransom bills mislaid from Col. Lindbergh. All over the world police made special efforts to help.

If to this total are added telegraph and telephone tolls incurred by police, newspapers and individuals, the sum becomes staggering.

TWISTING OF TOES FINAL MEANS OF IDENTIFYING CHILD

(By The Associated Press)

Hopewell, N. J.—A characteristic twisting of the toes provided a final means of identifying murdered Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., Dr. Philip Van Ingen, who was present at the child's birth, examined the body and found it also had the same skull formation.

Mount Rose, N. J.—Wild animals roam the woods where the body was found. At night, foxes and skunks can be seen crossing the road in the glare of headlights.

New York—Major James J. Walker interrupted a radio discussion of his planned beer parade to relay news of the discovery to his listeners. He said 18,000 New York police "will not be off duty" from now until the slayers are caught.

New York—Headlines were blacker than ever before. One newspaper here devoted its entire first page to two words: "Baby Dead."

St. Louis—Authorities established censorship to prevent the news from reaching a jury trying Paul A. Richards on a kidnapping charge. It was feared prejudice might result.

Hopewell—This village experienced its second flitting boom since the child was kidnapped. From all points of the compass curious folk flocked. The town's only hotel became the center of the excitement.

Hopewell—Unpleasant weather formed a background both for the kidnapping and for the discovery that murder had been done. When the baby was stolen March 1 a cold wind whipped through the Sourland country. Yesterday a drizzling rain fell as reporters gathered to hear Col. M. Norman Schwarzkopf's announcement.

Hopewell—William Allen, 45-year-old Negro truckman who found the body, has an opinion about the slayer. "I just hope they get the man that did it," he said. "Nothing would be too bad to do to him."

FRUITLESS LINDBERGH "CLUE" IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee—(AP)—Another Lindbergh "clue" vanished here 12 hours before the news came yesterday of the death of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

Police were notified Albert Luchs, West New York, N. J., had told a garage man he was here in connection with the Lindbergh case. Luchs, the garage man said, confided he was a lieutenant of the New Jersey State police. Detectives found Luchs, after returning to New Jersey and learning there was no "Lieutenant Luchs" on the staff.

"I was just kidding about that Lindbergh stuff," he explained. "I am a member of a detective agency and I thought if I told that story the garage man might cut down my $100 garage bill."

College Men—5, for summer work. References required. No canvassing. For interviews see Mr. Asque at Y. M. C. A., 6 to 10 P. M. today and 9 to 12 A. M. Saturday.

MANY STATES OFFER HELP IN MURDER SEARCH

Notables Send Condolences and Express Horror at Atrocity

(By The Associated Press)

A shocked continent today shared the sorrow of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh and the resources of many states were pledged to a relentless hunt for the abductors and a brutal slaying of Charles A. Jr.

The president of Mexico, the governors of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Illinois, among others, and hosts of other notables in public and professional life sped condoling messages to the Lindbergh home and expressed horror at the atrocity of the crime.

"What infamy!" declared General Plutarco Elias Calles, former president of Mexico. "The news causes me profound grief. I have only the deepest sympathy for Col. Lindbergh and his wife and Mrs. Morrow."

"I am terribly shocked," exclaimed President Ortiz Rubio. "I send my condolences and sincere sympathy to the relatives and the people of the United States. Mexico has the deepest affection for Colonel Lindbergh, nor has it forgotten the work of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow."

At New York, Mayor James J. Walker pledged the entire municipal police force of 18,000 "to ceaseless duty to run down what I am certain are the most miserable scoundrels in the annals of criminology."

The Chicago's hardened crime fighters, received the news with shock. Frank Loesch, head of the Chicago Crime commission, Col. Robert Isham Randolph, head of the Secret Six, and Alexander Jamies, its chief investigator, expressed unanimous belief the kidnapping and slaying of the child was the work of a fiend, not of gangs. "Authorities must look for clues in the immediate vicinity of the crime," advised Loesch.

And from many others:

Gov. Harry Moore of New Jersey: "This is a great shock to the whole country."

Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania: "The Lindberghs have my deepest sympathy. The Pennsylvania State police will bend every effort to the end that the kidnapers—and from all appearances the murderers—of the baby shall be captured and pay the penalty for their heinous crime."

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois: "A paralyzing shock to the citizens of Illinois. Illinois stands ready to throw all its resources into efforts to see that the ends of justice are served."

Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota, boyhood home of Col. Lindbergh: "A blow to me and to every citizen of Minnesota. In behalf of the state I wish to extend to him and to his gallant wife our deepest sympathy."

At Minneapolis, Mrs. W. A. Butler, aunt of Col. Lindbergh, wept, said she had had a feeling for several weeks the baby was dead. "It's terrible," she said between sobs. At Red Lake Falls, Mrs. Eva Lindbergh Christie, half sister of the flying colonel, deeply shocked, called it "the most wanton crime in the world."

Senator Norris of Nebraska, termed it "too awful to talk about" and predicted the interstate kidnapping bill would be passed in congress.

Representative Cochran of Missouri, declared "the mothers of this country will never be satisfied until they know the government is solidly behind the protection of their children."

And at Detroit, the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, the nationally known Roman Catholic priest, expressed hope that the sorrow of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh would be "an incentive to every American to make this a better country for the children of the growing generation."

POLICE LAUNCH UNITED SEARCH IN NEW JERSEY

Body of Victim in Trenton Pending Completion of Funeral Plans

London, the 72-year-old educator of New York city who, negotiating through the newspapers as "Jafse," established contact with a man to whom, later, $50,000 of Col. Lindbergh's money was paid on promise—several times—that the child would be returned "alive and well."

The other was John H. Curtis, one of three Norfolk, Va., "intermediaries," whose recent information has sent him into the coastal waters near Long Island where, it was hinted, contact was to be made with the kidnappers.

"These men are being questioned and, and will be questioned later in the day by the Trenton police," said Col. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the state police. They are not, however, under arrest.

Found By Negro
Discovery of the child's skeleton was made by William Allen, Negro truckman. His truck, driving the Hopewell-Mount Rose highway, had halted, and Allen had left it to enter the brush.

Brush and undergrowth blocked his path. He stooped and pushed it aside.

Beneath the brush, underneath a layer of rotting leaves lay the body of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., only child of Anne, daughter of the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, and Charles Lindbergh.

Clinging to the decomposed body was a small, unidentifiable object that had kept the baby warm that night of March 1 when his nurse tucked him into his crib. These shreds of baby clothing were identification enough; these, and the matted, curly blonde hair.

Today, a horror-kindled incentive drove forces of the law to unrestrained hunt for the murderer. The heads of secrecy and of fear for the baby's safety no longer held. It was no longer necessary to exercise extreme care. Murder had been done. A compound fracture of the skull caused death. The murder evidently was done very soon after the kidnapping, probably within an hour. A man apparently, mused either by an intense hatred or an overpowering fear, struck the child dead. Physicians described it as a "terrific" blow.

No weapon has been found. There was added possibility the baby had been hurled violently from a motor car.

State police of New Jersey, who have been in direct charge of the search for the baby since the night 73 days ago, when the voice of Col. Lindbergh's wife, a telephone said, "My baby has been kidnapped."

The identification of the body. A physician added confirmation. Later Miss Betty Gow, the baby's nurse, said she was "quite certain" the body was that of the Lindbergh child. The parents themselves remained completely in the background while their greatest tragedy was being written in black headlines around the world.

Mrs. Lindbergh and her mother, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, were at the Hopewell estate. Col. Lindbergh was absent, engaged in the baby hunt with Curtis, the Norfolk "intermediary." He returned early this morning.

Close friends said Mrs. Lindbergh, who is preparing for another baby in the summer, had accepted the news with her "usual equanimity."

One of the strange, weird jests of the horror that for 73 days had turned the Lindberghs into a tragic heartbreak house was the discovery of the body virtually at its doorstep.

Running through the brush-grown land, and passing within 75 feet of the baby's burial place is a telephone wire. It was strung hurriedly, to carry to the world news of the baby hunt, and it was strung in the hope, of new clues, of imminent discoveries passed hardly more than whisper distance from the object of the hunt.

TODAY'S MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York —(P)— Stocks heavy; rails reflect further liquidation. Bonds irregular; U. S. governments firm.

Curb heavy; specialties weak.

Foreign exchanges steady; sterling easy.

Cotton quiet; local selling; easier stock market.

Sugar steady; trade buying.

Coffee quiet; poor spot demand.

Chicago — Wheat steady; smaller southern hemisphere exports; firm cables.

Corn steady; smaller movement; improved shipping demand.

Cattle quiet and steady.

Hogs lighter.

PRICES HIT DECLINE ON CHICAGO MARKET

Chicago —(P)— Prices declined predominately in Chicago stock exchange dealings today. Edison and Swift International led the downward movement. Edison dipped more than 11. Automotive shares also underwent noticeable setbacks, especially Borg, Bendix and Pines. Borg went to a new low under 5.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

London —(P)— Firmness was maintained on the stock exchange. Good investing improved gilded securities, home rails and industrials but oil shares and some foreign issues yielded on profit-taking. Argentine rails advanced a point and the closing was firm.

Paris — Trading on the bourse was restrained and selling in anticipation of the coming holiday had a depressing effect. The closing was heavy with practically no trading.

Berlin — Prices were firm throughout on the bourse with moderate business being done in coal and iron shares, closing prices remaining at their highest. The bourse will remain closed until May 17.

Mrs. Edward B. McLean. Private detectives and newspapers also were active in separate searches.

All these "intermediaries" have moved like secret shadows through the weeks of investigation. They explained that any other course would endanger the life of the child. It was this secrecy that made possible the $50,000 "Jafse" buy which that night was paid to a man near a Vermont, N. Y., cemetery on the man's promise to return the child.

The Norfolk intermediaries—Curtis and two associates—were even more active than "Jafse," employing airplanes, yachts and fast motorcars in negotiations that ran up and down the Atlantic seaboard and out to sea. Col. Lindbergh himself participated in the negotiations as recently as yesterday. It was learned.

Authorities understood that at the moment the body was discovered, the aviator was seeking to contact the kidnappers somewhere off Long Island.

Mrs. McLean, the Washington woman, who, acting independently, put up $100,000 in an effort to return the child to his parents, and who now charges Gaston B. Means, her agent, with appropriating the money to his own use, declined to be quoted. Her attorney said she was greatly shocked and grieved.

Efforts at definite identification were pushed even after the police, the nurse and the county physician had satisfied themselves that the skeleton was that of the Lindbergh baby. A physician who was present at the baby's birth was called in early today, and added substantiation to the earlier identification.

Neither parent had viewed the body up to an early hour today, so far as could be learned, however, an automobile having Col. Lindbergh as one of its passengers, arrived at the Hopewell estate at 3 a. m. The flier was ready to lend his active support to the hunt for the murderer of his child.

The mysterious ransom note, reputedly demanding $50,000 for the baby's return, was withheld from publication. Col. Schwarzkopf, commanding the state police, said it still was regarded as an important clue.

Authorities were still exercising extraordinary precautions to safeguard the feelings of the parents. Questions seeking to determine how the news had affected Mr. and Mrs. Lindbergh and what plans they may have made toward bringing the abductor-killer to justice were not answered.

No announcement was made of burial plans.

The report of the autopsy, prepared by Dr. Mitchell, county physician, was gruesome in detail. In addition to the lower left leg, other parts of the body were missing, due presumably to decomposition, hastened by exposure. The left hand and right forearm were gone, as were abdominal organs. The chest was reached by the physician, however, was without equivocation. He said:

"Diagnosis of the cause of death is a fractured skull due to external violence."

Expressions of sympathy came from every corner of the world, from Paris to which Lindbergh, then the "Lone Eagle," flew from New York in a single, uninterrupted flight from Washington where his feat later was given the official acclaim of the American people; and from Japan and China to which, within his life as his companion.

Coincidentally, noted in the fact that in the hour when the world was hearing news of the baby's death, Lou Reichers, New Jersey airman, was lifting the nose of his airplane into the night skies for a two-stop flight to Paris in an endeavor to cut in half the time made by Colonel B. Means, acting as the agent of Lindbergh.

WHEAT PRICES IN RALLY ON GRAIN MARKET

Overseas Purchases Have Bullish Effect on Values

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago —(P)— Overseas purchases of North American wheat, including considerable United States hard winter wheat from private holders, gave a little upturn to grain markets late today.

Speculative interest in the wheat pit was unusually light, and at no time were prices much altered from the finish of the previous day. Crop developments were mixed, word of improvement coming from some sections, but other sections reported deterioration.

Steady after fractional declines wheat responded somewhat to reports that selling from the southern hemisphere was less aggressive, and that surplus supplies both in Argentina and Australia were below normal. It was also emphasized that European needed foodstuffs, and that United States wheat was selling abroad on a competitive basis.

Latest advices put the total southern hemisphere wheat surplus at less than 151,000,000 bushels. In this connection, estimates were current that weekly exports of only 3,750,000 bushels to Jan. 1 from Argentina and Australia would mean complete exhaustion of supplies. Contrasting this season Argentina and Australia have averaged 8,000,000 to 9,000,000 bushels of wheat exports weekly and that available supplies of wheat in the United States are decreasing more rapidly than last year. Corn and oats fluctuated narrowly with wheat.

Provisions were neglected.

Discussion of camp-oral projects took place, and after the regular troop meeting the various patrols met for discussion. Tests were passed, games were played, and plans for an overnight hike Friday were discussed. There now are three patrols in the troop, the Pine Tree led by L. Belongia, Silver led by Richard Danner, and Flying Eagle led by Melvin Heinz. Troop meetings will be held at 7:30 next Monday evening. Scouts of Troop 20 will meet in Park school, and scouts of Troop 27 will meet in St. Mary's annex.

"Le Gant" a second skin!

Made of YOUTHLASTIC

"STRETCHES BOTH WAYS"

It stretches up and down and around — molding your hips into sleek, panther-like lines.

Light as a breeze, porous, soft

A smartly tailored Step-In made of an entirely new, tissue-thin elastic — and this elastic is tougher than any elastic used before. It absolutely stays where it belongs, and the gentle stretch the entire length does away with stocking tears and runs. Tiny, velvet covered bones, just two inches long, keep the waist snug — a light silk lacing at each side for ease in putting on and off — smooth, flat, button adjusting hose supporters, with satin ribbon garter clasps guards.
